Going Russian.
No New Youth for Shaw.
Destroying A Great Church.
Much Variety in Crime.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

RUSSIAN IDEAS despised until recently, are becoming fashionable. George Bernard Shaw wishes he were 18 and might go to Russia for good.

A former head of our farm board says the small individual must make way for co-operative farming, which is the Russian method.

GERMANY NOW adopts the Russian system of controlling exchange to stabilize the mark.

Nobody may trade in foreign exchange in Germany except through the Reichsbank at rates fixed by the bank. No one may buy or sell marks except through the Reichsbank. No more "supply and demand" nonsense. If you violate the law you go to jail for 10 years.

IN RUSSIA you buy and sell rubles only through the state bank at par. And you can't take money out of Russia. If you get it there, you must spend it there.

Not so in the United States. We ship money to other countries by the billions, sometimes buying foreign bonds that become worthless, sometimes lending money to fighting nations, always sending rich women abroad to do their shopping.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, back in London, denies that he plans to be "rejuvenated" by Dr. Voronoff of Vienna. You need not be as wise as Shaw to resent the horrible suggestion that the gland of a monkey be planted in your system to enable you to play the part of an old fool right into the grave.

MR. SHAW, growing more and more enthusiastic about Russia, says the balance of opportunity for the new generation has shifted from Horace Greeley's "Go west" to "Go east, young man, to Russia." Shaw says:

"Russia is putting her house in order; all the other nations are playing the fool."

And he adds:

"We had better follow Russia's example as soon as possible."

England will not do it.

GLOOMY NEWS from Moscow tells of the Russian government demolishing the great Cathedral of Christ the Redeemer, a gigantic and magnificent monument, built to honor Russia's victory over Napoleon.

It should be preserved for future generations, whatever use might be made of it, as the Turks piously preserve Saint Sophia, formerly a Christian church, but now a Mohammedan mosque.

Russians destroying the magnificent church of marble and granite that took 100 years to build, to put in its place a "palace of Soviets" will regret their vandalism.

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety.

You might say something like that about gangster artist killings. Their variety is infinite. The latest person put on the spot is found in New York, strangled with a sash cord, left in the street wrapped up in a blanket.

Angelo Marino, the man in the blanket, had been trussed up, after strangulation, his knees and arms tied across his chest.

THE AUTHORITIES are no nearer finding gangsters that shot down five children in New York streets, killing one. It is reported that the shooting was a "bookmaker's quarrel," one particular set of bookmakers seeking to discourage with bullets others that gave too long odds, to the fools that bet on races.

Bookmakers have money, money buys silence and protection. If it was an affair of bookmakers the criminals will probably not be found.

SO MANY FLIERS are over the different oceans and continents that it is difficult to keep track of them. Sufficient to say that they are all doing "very nicely."

You wonder what the old Sultans of Turkey would have said had you told them that in their great city of Istanbul men that had flown the Atlantic Ocean and the European continent would land to drink to the health of "Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey." That would be too much for any Sultan.

ONE OF THE fliers at the Turkish banquet said that he expected Constantinople to be a great aviation center some day.

Charles Fourier, the French philosopher, expected Constantinople to become the capital of the entire world, because of its central position.

But now flying machines make all spots on earth accessible. The world's capital will be wherever the world's brains are, and the world's money.

THE NAVY announces that it is now building a plane that will be "as speedy as the British Interceptor."

Why a plane "as fast?" why not FASTER?

In the days of Paul Jones, we sometimes had ships on the sea faster than the British had. Why not have them faster in the air?

However, as David Rendt, the Tammany boss of Staten Island, remarked:

"In the old days we had wooden ships and iron men. Now we have iron ships and wooden men."

BANDIT KILLS DRUGGIST IN HOLDUP

Friend Sees Shooting in Downtown Store; Dying Victim's Pockets Rifled

Shot in the abdomen by a masked Negro who had secreted himself behind a counter, Harry Siegel, 28, assistant manager of the Walgreen Drug Store at Sixth avenue and Wood street, died in the Mercy Hospital early today. The shooting was witnessed by Daniel Korn, 27, assistant manager of the Walgreen store at Seventh street and Penn avenue, a lifelong friend of Siegel.

Capt. Frank Ferris, head of the detective bureau homicide squad, this afternoon said four of his men working on the case had obtained a "hot" clue to the killer's identity and expected to arrest him within 24 hours.

The victim of the Negro thug was a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh Pharmacy School and only last week was promoted from clerk to assistant manager. His father and mother, Mrs. Nathan Siegel, were at his bedside when he died.

FRIEND WITH VICTIM

After Siegel had checked his registers he requested Korn to accompany him to the small basement, where his coat and hat were kept. Korn followed his friend behind the counter to the head of a small stairway. Here they were confronted by the Negro. The robber's face was partially covered with a handkerchief, and he threatened the pair with a revolver.

The robber said:

"Stick 'em up, both of you. Stick 'em up."

Without further warning he

White House Mystery Solved, Nutt Admits HooverEatsGumdrops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, caters to one of President Hoover's weaknesses.

Each time he comes to Washington from his Cleveland home he brings with him a small package.

Questioned today when he called on Mr. Hoover as to what the box contained Nutt said:

"It is something the President likes."

Finally replying to another question, he said:

"They are gumdrops. The President likes them."

PARK GIVEN MALONE'S SUPPORT

Action of Supplies Chief Seen as Mayoralty Bid; Smith Announcement Due

James F. Malone, former president of City Council and now Secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies in the Pinchot cabinet, today indorsed the candidacy of District Attorney Andrew T. Park for re-election.

Many regarded it as an indication that Malone will be a candidate for mayor in 1933, an office for which he was defeated in a three-cornered race two years ago despite a surprising show of strength.

SMITH TO RUN

The indorsement had apparently not made any change in plans of State Deputy General Ralph H. Smith, a close friend of both Malone and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern. Smith's announcement as a candidate in opposition to Park is expected tomorrow or Thursday.

Park, however, declaring that his "cycle of indorsements has been wholly completed" by Malone's announcement, intimated he did not expect Smith to run against him.

MORE CONFUSION

Malone's action adds to the confusion regarding the identities and support of the "Independent" ticket which McGovern is expected to enter in the fall election.

Malone and McGovern, enthusiastic co-workers in the election of Gov. Pinchot, drifted somewhat

FLYING PAIR TO SKIRT ARCTIC

Herndon, Pangborn, World Fliers, Face New Delays in Siberia, But Will Push on

Associated Press.

Here is how the major airplane flights stood today:

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh reached Baker Lake, Canada, yesterday afternoon from Churchill on their flight to Japan and were ready to take off again over the barren lands toward Nome.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., who set out to beat the Post-Gatty round-the-world record, were at Khabarovsk, Siberia, awaiting favorable weather before leaving on the long hop for Nome, Alaska.

Russell Boardman and John Polando rested at Istanbul, debating their next move. It seemed likely they might fly part way home, but they appeared to have abandoned plans for any flight farther into the East.

Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, whose projected refueling flight to Tokio failed, remained at Fairbanks, Alaska, insisting it was too late to try again.

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—From the isolated trading post of Baker Lake, Northwest Territory, where it was determined today that the Lindberghs arrived yesterday afternoon, they fly today over the bleakest country they have yet encountered on their vacation trip to the Orient.

When the wall of static which had cut them off from the world since shortly after they left here yesterday was finally broken to permit news of their arrival at Baker Lake to come through, it was learned they planned taking off quickly for Hunter Bay, 650 miles to the West.

NEAR ARCTIC CIRCLE

The course from Baker Lake to Hunter Bay, which is just 20 miles from the Arctic Circle, lies over a lake-dotted area far less hospitable than any the Lindberghs have traversed as yet. It will take them over the bleak "height of land," a ridge stretching across their path about 200 miles west of Baker Lake.

The message reporting the Lindberghs' arrival at Baker Lake came through from the privately owned radio station there which is the only regular means of communication between the little trading post and the outside world. Communication was established by wireless officials of the Department of Marine and so anxiety concerning the famous fliers was set at rest.

TAKE-OFF DELAYED

TOKIO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—In the face of unfavorable weather reports, Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators, had not been able tonight to set a definite time to take off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Nome, Alaska, in continuation of their attempt to beat the record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in flying around the world.

The flight was delayed at Khabarovsk when a wing of the plane was damaged in landing.

The fliers received several messages urging that they come to Tokio to start their nonstop flight across the Pacific, but despite adverse weather reports and a soggy field at Khabarovsk, they had not changed their plans to start for Alaska as soon as the weather showed improvement.

JURORS RENEW CAPONE QUIZ

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The federal grand jury today began a review of the history of Alphonse Scarface Al Capone, illicit liquor activities, seeking to reindict him under the Jones law as recommended last week by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Aided by police, federal officers last night invaded Capone's gangland haunts in search of witnesses, but if any were found they did not appear before the grand jury today.

Waiting in the antiroom, however, were Chief Special Agent Eliot Ness, 28-year-old University of Chicago graduate, and the corps of "untouchables" who procured most of the liquor evidence on which the liquor conspiracy indictment against Capone was returned.

Capone last week moved to change his plea from guilty to not guilty of the liquor and income tax evasion indictments against him.

Royalities Double Estate of Davis

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Since his death 15 years ago, the estate of Richard Harding Davis, noted author, has more than doubled in value as a result of posthumous royalties from his writings, it was disclosed today in a formal accounting submitted to the Surrogate's Court.

'Jigg's' Kin Attends His Injured Fiancee

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—George McManus, of Greenwich, Conn., nephew of the cartoonist, today was at the bedside of Miss Mary Palmer, Sioux City society girl, seriously injured when her roadster overturned. The girl's mother said the daughter and McManus have been secretly engaged since June.

McAdoo Improved After Operation

Hawks, World Fliers End Wheeling Visit

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, 'round-the-world fliers, and Capt. Frank Hawks, speed fliers, left here today after having attended a banquet last night. Hawks hopped off for New York, and Post and Gatty for Davenport, Ia.

GREEN DEMANDS JOB PARLEY

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today proposed that President Hoover either call a conference of economists in an effort to remedy employment conditions or admit "the present economic structure of the country is an absolute failure."

Green spoke at the forty-sixth annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor. He outlined organized labor's remedy for the situation, including the five-day week, maintenance of the present wage scale and expenditure of government monies for public works. He warned of "a rebellion of the army of unemployed which will upset our present political system unless industry and government co-operate with labor." He added:

"We are approaching a winter which will be full of distress because of the savings of all of us are about exhausted."

VOTE MACHINE BILL HELD UP

The County Commissioners today refused to pay the first bill submitted by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, which holds a contract for more than $1,000,000 for delivery of 1,100 voting machines for the fall election by August 15.

A request for $10,000 payment for the first 10 machines delivered, was made to the Commissioners this morning by Gilbert C. Cloonan, chief of the County Election Bureau.

It brought down a storm in which the three Commissioners, for once, were united.

PROTESTS STORMY

Commissioner McGovern almost leaped from his chair, shouting:

"No! Do they want pay now? "The date when the machines are to be delivered is August

CHIEFS TESTIFY IN FIRE PROBE

Firemen found gates into the yard open, but had to break down the front doors to enter the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for Aged, Penn and Aiken avenues, to battle the flames that on July 24 claimed 47 lives, according to testimony at the opening of the inquest today.

Battalion Fire Chief W. H. Davis testified that he was one of the first to enter the burning building the night of July 24, that when he ascended to the third and fourth floors no volunteer rescuers were there, but followed immediately behind the firemen.

Woman's Prized Treasure, Pet Dog, Willed Friend

The faithful and beloved companion of the late Mrs. Elmira D. Bauman, 86, of 2855 Epsy avenue, Dormont, Carra Wallachoo, a 9-year-old Pekinese dog, was among new friends today. And Carra Wallachoo after today will sleep in the little white bed she has used for years.

Mrs. Florence McCollough, of 1218 Sherman avenue, North Side, a friend of Mrs. Bauman during her lonely life, darkened by approaching blindness and total deafness, became Carra Wallachoo's new mistress through the provisions of Mrs. Bauman's will, presented for probate late yesterday. Her death was caused by a broken hip.

Mrs. Bauman's love for her faithful pet was revealed in the following stipulation:

"Words cannot express the faithfulness and comfort of my little dog to me in my present loneliness and for this reason it is my heartfelt wish that Carra Wallachoo be given a good home.

"I give my most treasured possession of all, my little Pekinese dog, to my friend, Mrs. Florence McCollough, together with the little white iron bed now used by my little pet."

Edison Jokes as He Enjoys Banned Cigar, Takes Walk

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Thomas A. Edison was much improved today.

He got dressed this afternoon for the first time since Saturday, and went for a walk around the second floor of his home.

The inventor, who suffered a collapse on Saturday, spent a restful night. He smoked a cigar last night and remained up until 11 p. m. His doctor earlier in the day had refused to permit him to smoke.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, attending the 84-year-old inventor, issued a bulletin reading:

"Mr. Edison showed encouraging improvement. He spent most of the evening enjoying the company of his family and amusing them with his numerous remarks."

Edison ate breakfast "with a relish" this morning, read newspapers, and showed evidences of returning strength and health. Dr. Howe announced his breakfast comprised berries and cereal.

PINCHOT WOULD CALL GUARD TO CURB STRIFE

Tells Officers at Mt. Gretna Of Rumors of Industrial Trouble in This District

MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 4. — (AP.) — Gov. Pinchot last night informed officers of the Pennsylvania National Guard he would not hesitate to call out the guard if threatened trouble resulted from unemployment or strikes in the western part of the state.

Addressing 200 officers of the 56th Brigade, the Governor, in the course of a tribute to the guard, referred to the "rumors" from the mining areas of the West which he said hold a "possibility" that the organization may be called for emergency service, he said.

"There are rumors flying on the possibility of disorder during the coming winter. If these rumors should be verified—and I most earnestly hope they will not—the cause will not be with Pennsylvanians, but with agitators from other states.

"We know already such agitators have been attempting to make trouble, but we do not believe they will succeed. However, if they succeed, I shall have no hesitancy calling out the Pennsylvania National Guard, providing, of course, their services shall be required by the scope of the emergences.

"We propose to handle our own affairs in a peaceful and orderly manner no matter who attempts to incite disorder among our people. This is our state and we Pennsylvanians propose to run it along the traditions of William Penn."

Fire Chiefs Testify In Fatal Fire Quiz

William J. McGregor, in conducting the inquest, which is expected to consume several days. Jones said his theory that the fire was started by spontaneous combustion from a floor polisher was upheld by experts of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Jones, Davis and James Moodie, fire alarm operator, testified that six alarms were sounded, the first at 10:17 p. m. and the other five at intervals of five minutes.

Battalion Chief Davis testified the building had been inspected April 28, 1931. He then gave an eye-witness story of the fire. He said:

"On arrival at Box 516 about 10:19, we found the home on fire. We laid our first line from a half-way plug across the street to the entrance of the east wing of the building. I went Capt. Ed J. Carter to turn in more alarms. We needed men. I then took two men and went through the building."

GATE OPEN

Coroner McGregor asked:

"How did you get into the yard? Was the gate open?"

"The main gate was open."

"Were the doors of the home open?"

"I had to break open the front door."

"After that what did you do?"

"I went up the fire escape to the second floor, but could not find anybody, and then went down to the first floor, where I met a sister. I told her what we wanted to do. We made plans to rescue the people we could see at the windows of the upper floors."

McGregor asked:

"Were you the first fireman to reach the third floor?"

"Among the first."

"When you got to the third floor, were there outsiders there?"

"When I got there, no."

"What did you do?"

"I tried to get the inmates out."

"Did you have help in doing this?"

"By that time there were outsiders there and they helped the firemen and myself."

"These outsiders followed you up the stairs?"

"Yes."

EXPLAINS DIAGRAM

Davis was shown a plan of the building and pointed out the stairs where the fire was first discovered. The coroner then asked:

"The oor where the floor polishing machine was placed on the first floor?"

"Yes, it was on the first floor."

"When you got to the third floor, you say that there was smoke?"

"Smoke and heat."

"When you go to the third floor, where were the inmates?"

"I found inmates in the hall, and some in bed."

"Were these inmates crippled?"

"I understood those in the bedrooms were crippled and we carried them out."

"What chances of escape did these inmates have?"

"Plenty. They could go down the stairs in front and in the back they could go out the windows to the fire escapes."

"Were the cripples carried out?"

"Oh yes, they were all carried out."

"Did any die?"

"I am informed some did."

When you arrived there was there still a chance for all those on the third floor?"

"Absolutely."

"Did you go to the fourth floor?"

"I carried people from the fourth floor."

"Were there cripples on the fourth floor?"

"I believe one was crippled that I carried down, but not entirely so."

"Were there means of escape on the fourth floor?"

"Yes, they could escape, but as they were old, they would not be able to escape as easily as younger people. I believe they were mostly old people and not crippled."

"You were on the fourth floor without any safety device?"

"Yes."

ESCAPE FIRST FLOOR

"Were there people on the first floor?"

"The people on the first floor had escaped."

"Were there people on the second floor?"

"If there had been any on the second floor they had left when I passed the floor."

"Now tell us what you did."

"After we had rescued all the inmates we could find, and got the outsiders out of the building, we started to fight the fire."

"Were conditions for fighting the fire all that they should be?"

"The conditions were satisfactory although in my opinion automatic sprinklers might have prevented such a fire."

"I refer to other conditions such as water pressure."

"There was plenty of water and no delay in getting it on the fire. I was there and it seemed to me the water did not reach far enough."

"I know what you mean. You refer to a line in front of the building. I'll tell you about that line. It was evidently connected by someone who had nothing to do with the fire department and who should not have made that connection. It was connected to an overtaxed pumper."

Davis testified that after the fire they found the hose boxes were all right. He testified:

"We decided from our investigation that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion."

Hoseman George Metz, of No. 6 Engine Company, testified he had gone into the building with Davis. "They broke the front door down with an ax," he said, adding:

"There were people inside, but they were all right and were able to get out. We went up to the third floor and we saw the sisters leading people to the fire escapes. Some were still in bed and had to be helped out. We stayed up there, leading people down the fire escapes and down the stairs until we were driven out by the fire."

TELLS OF RESCUES

Eugene B. Vandergrift, a hoseman, also of No. 6 Company, was the next witness. He testified to rescuing inmates from the third floor.

Capt. J. T. Culhane, of No. 4 Engine Company, testified to making an inspection of the building April 28, 1931. He said:

We started in the basement and went all through the building. Everything was in fine shape. The hallways and stairs were kept clear. There was no rubbish around anywhere and we found a sister in charge of each floor. These sisters said that in nevent of fire it was their duty to stay on their own floor and to show the inmates out. We also learned that the doors leading to the fire escapes were always unlocked."

Vanderbilt said he had called Mrs. Vanderbilt on the telephone last night and discussed the possibility of a reconciliation, but he admitted in a voice that betrayed grief:

"Yes, I attempted to kill Arno for a just and good cause. I shot at him, but the bullet went wild. I also knocked him down twice at the depot when he left Reno.

"Arno has denied that these incidents occurred, but I have witnesses that my statements are correct."

Malone Indorsement Of Park's Candidacy

The text of James F. Malone's statement indorsing the candidacy of Andrew T. Park for District Attorney follows:

"I am going to vote for and support Andrew T. Park for District Attorney. Some persons have talked about presenting opposition to Mr. Park's candidacy, citing certain excuses for doing so. To my mind, none of the excuses justify me in opposing him. I have been told that Mr. Park should be opposed because of the fact that certain persons have an undue influence with him, and that they are friendly with him. I do not believe any person has an improper influence with Mr. Park. There may be certain people who claim friendship with Mr. Park, just as they might claim the friendship of any other public official. Unless the public official grants favors and concessions against the law, the public official must not be held responsible for the claims of such persons.

"Mr. Park has been in the office of the District Attorney for nine years, under Judges Rowand and Gardner. He was serving as Fourth Assistant District Attorney when he was promoted to the office of First Assistant District Attorney and served three years in that office, when his superior, the Honorable Samuel H. Gardner, was elevated to the bench in 1930. Mr. Park was unanimously appointed by the judges of the Court of Common Pleas to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Gardner. There were no persons in Allegheny County who knew Mr. Park better when they voted to make him District Attorney than the judges who were on the bench at the time he was appointed. These judges represented different minds, came from all parts of the county, and were in close contact with Mr. Park during his whole service in the District Attorney's office. I am sure if they, or any of them had felt that he was not qualified to act as District Attorney of Allegheny County, they would not have given him their support.

PRAISES RECORD

"The duties of the District Attorney are always hard and those that have fallen to the lot of the present District Attorney, Mr. Park, in the last one year and a half, have probably been harder than those of any of his predecessors for many years. To my mind, he has stood up and mastered them as only a faithful officer could. There have been some persons prone to criticize some of his actions, but when the final result on any particular subject was brought about, most of those who had first criticized were willing to admit that he had fulfilled his duty to the fullest. There is no office more important than the District Attorney's office. He represents the people as prosecutor, not as persecutor, and Mr. Park is broad enough to shield the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty.

"I have been told that should I indorse Mr. Park he would not have any opposition. I do not know whether this is correct. I hope it is.

"There never has been a time more necessary to have a district attorney unobligated, except to the people, than the present. I am sure Mr. Park will conduct his office in such a manner so as to fulfill his obligations to the people of Allegheny County."

fired one shot, the bullet striking Siegel in the stomach. Siegel fell to the floor and as Korn stepped forward to grasp his friend, he was forced back by the robber who cried:

"Down on the floor or you'll get the same as he got."

As Korn prostrated himself on the floor in front of the counter, the robber leaped over Siegel and ran to the front door. He cursed as he was unable to open the door. He returned to Korn and said:

"Where's the safe?"

Korn answered:

"I don't know. Take anything you want, but get out."

SEARCHES CLOTHING

The robber then bent over his dying victim and began a search of the clothing. He discovered a wallet and after removing several bills he threw the wallet aside. He turned to Korn and said:

"I want those keys."

Korn crawled to the body of his friend, removed a bunch of keys from Siegel's belt and slid them along the floor to the robber. He then remained quiet until he heard the front door slam.

SCHOOLEY LINK WITH GARBAGE FIRM DENIED

Hearing Before Council Fails To Disclose Sites or Backers of New Concern

Denial that Roy D. Schooley, City Treasurer, is interested in the Modern Service Company, low bidder on the city's garbage and rubbish removal contract, was made today.

Herman Friedman, one of the backers of the company, who it is said frequently confers with Schooley both during and after business hours, made the denial when it was put to him by Attorney Earl F. Reed, counsel for Francis Guthrie, taxpayer, who instigated the hearing.

SHUNS QUESTION

Friedman, however, refused to answer questions relative to Friedman signing papers for the Mayor and Council President John S. Herron sustained him in his refusal. Herron said the question was not pertinent. Reed contended that as the Mayor is the final arbiter in garbage disputes it was relevant.

Friedman was asked if any city official was interested in the Modern Service Company and replied in the negative. It was then that Schooley was named specifically. Reed asked:

"Did you ever tell an auto truck company that if they wanted the business they would have to see Schooley."

DENIES STATEMENT

Friedman answered in the negative and when the matter of signing papers for the Mayor was mentioned he refused to answer.

The hearing brought to disclose the personnel of the company and its financial status produced these results:

The location of four incinerators which the company proposed to build is still a secret.

That $190,000 worth of preferred stock has been subscribed, according to C. A. Bardolph, president; Bardolph and Friedman each taking $60,000 and George Gilpin $70,000.

Bardolph said there are other men, but they don't want any one to know who they are at present.

Contrary to a previous statement by police, Mulrooney said no actual eye-witness to the children's shootings had been discovered. He said hundreds of tips, all without value, had been received by police since the offering of $30,000 in rewards for the arrest and conviction of the gangsters.

In the drive against racketeers and gunmen, a plan was announced to introduce a bill in Congress prohibiting interstate transportation of firearms.

BOMB WRECKS MINER'S HOME

The second bombing within six weeks early today rocked the Coverdale mining community and hurled the family of Samuel Darway, a miner, from bed. The Darway home, a small two-story residence at 57 Bertha street, Bethel Heights, adjoining Coverdale, was badly damaged.

According to police, a dynamite bomb had been placed under the front porch. The porch was wrecked and the front of the house damaged.

Darway, his wife, Rose, 25, and their daughter, Pauline, 5, were asleep when the explosion occurred. Darway helped his wife and daughter from the house.

Darway is employed in the mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation. His home is a short distance from that of Victor Gozani, which was bombed six weeks ago.

REGISTRATION BOARD'S PLEA REJECTED

McGovern Assails Babcock, Armstrong for Refusal To Grant Appropriation

On the heels of the arrest of two men in an alleged attempt to pad registration lists, the majority County Commissioners today held up a request for $10,000 by the Board of Registration Commissioners to pursue their investigation.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern protested that the move was intended to stifle activities of the registration board but his colleagues, J. G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, refused to grant the appropriation.

HUMES EXPLAINS

E. Lowry Humes, of the commission, explained the request saying:

"We are laying the ground work for investigation to insure that every legal voter is permitted to vote and that every attempt to enroll illegal voters is prevented. We need this money to do our duty as imposed by law to insure honest elections."

Armstrong and Babcock said they wanted to inquire further into the request.

McGovern declared:

"Go ahead with the work you are doing. I'll get a crowd of people out on the street corners with baskets and get the money necessary. I'll take a corner myself. This is a move to block the work of the Registration Commissioners."

TO CHECK RECORDS

The discussion brought out that the recently ousted Registration Board had received an appropriation of $15,000 for 1931 and had spent all but $7,115.

Investigators of the Registration Board were expected today to begin checking all tax assessment affidavits in the office of the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes to substantiate affidavits of the two men arrested yesterday on perjury charges.

County Detective Michael Ford has been detailed by the District Attorney to investigate this and other registration and assessment cases.

The two men, Carmen Bevilacqua, 22, of 405 Collins avenue, and John Santarcangelo, 29, of 158 Meadow street, are at liberty in bail on perjury charges preferred after they had been caught making false affidavits in the office of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

PARK PLEDGES AID

In confessions, Registration Commission investigators said, the two admitted having sworn to about 20 affidavits under names other than their own. It is these 20 that the investigators will try to sort out of the affidavits in the Treasurer's office.

Another angle of the case, the hot political battle in the Twelfth Ward, where Michael DeRosa, Jr., is running for Alderman against the incumbent, William A. Means, was revealed today when it was learned that the first tip as to the activities of the two alleged assessment "repeaters" came from A. A. Donofrio, Means supporter, and half brother of Michael DeRosa, Jr.

Donofrio is a clerk in the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

LEADERS HERE ECHO PLEA FOR WAR ON GANGS

Noted Pittsburghers Join Hearst in Demanding Officials Crush Crime

More leading Pittsburghers joined the forces raising their voices in support of William Randolph Hearst's plea, made Sunday, for joint federal, state and municipal attacks on the crime wave sweeping the United States.

Among persons commenting upon the plea in the form of an editorial in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph were Thomas A. Dolan, president of the Chamber of Commerce; City Controller James P. Kerr; Attorney Frank J. Gosser, Chief of Allegheny Detectives George W. Matter; Vice President Phillip Murray of the United Mine Workers of America, and Patrick J. Fagan, district president United Mine Workers of America.

HEARST STAND PRAISED

All praised Mr. Hearst's stand against lawlessness in the land, declaring America and organized [illegible] "deportation" [illegible] of criminal aliens.

Mr. Dolan said:

"The deportation of criminal aliens, I believe, would be a most effective method to curb the lawlessness that is rampant in America today. France and other nations do not hesitate about shipping their criminals to isolated parts of the world, and there is no just reason why America should protect and harbor foreign-born who ignore our laws and institutions.

"In this country, founded on principles of self-government and equality of man, we should not tolerate favoritism in our courts, nor should we permit anyone to tamper with the machinery of justice. If the men we elect to dispense our justice show partisanship or permit themselves to be exploited by criminals or politicians, they should be removed from office and prosecuted.

VOTERS URGED TO ACT

"Much of the crime and the mismanagement in public office today is due to the indifference of the American people to their duties of citizenship. In America, we are quick to raise a cry that government is corrupt and officeholders thieves, but we forget our indignation before election time comes. If we did less denouncing and tried to help the good men we have in office and elect only those fit to expend public money and administer justice, much of our troubles would be over."

Controller Kerr said:

"Mr. Hearst asked some very pertinent questions and made some good suggestions. I believe the government of the United States should take steps to eliminate the criminal classes who have come to this country for the sole purpose of accumulating wealth at any cost and who have no interest in our government. They are certainly undesirable citizens.

SCORE CRIMINAL ALIENS

Attorney Gosser said:

"Mr. Hearst is certainly giving us a lesson in American patriotism. There are few modern examples of individuals like Hearst who have the courage and patriotism to call upon our public officials endowed with discretionary power to discharge the duties imposed upon them and mention them by name. If the serious menace of which Mr. Hearst speaks is to be obliterated, a better tone of reverence must characterize public life in the big cities of this country and especially among those who enjoy the honors and emoluments of public office.

Chief Matter said:

"Mr. Hearst has the thanks of all police officials for treating this serious subject as a matter of first importance to the nation, ranking all other emergencies. His demand for congressional action and effective legislation I am sure will bring results and remove the handicaps of handling undesirable aliens with criminal records.

GOOD RESULTS SEEN

"Here in Allegheny County we have been concerned, not only on account of the increase of gangster crime, but we have been alarmed by the large number of American youths imitating and emulating these sinister criminals. The tremendous influence of Mr. Hearst and his newspapers should accomplish much toward arousing the public and securing this co-operation."

Vice President Murray said:

"If the proper action is taken by the administrative branches of the federal government to stop the widespread system of racketeering and crime I am certain it would bring a boon and a blessing to the nation and its people."

CHINESE FLOOD RECEDING

HANKOW, China, Aug. 4 (AP)—Although flood waters were receding slightly today, Hankow's modern buildings still resembled rock and stone islands rising in a vast yellow sea which extended for miles beyond the range of powerful binoculars.

The wide expanse of muddy churning water was hardly broken by the thatched roofs of what had been villages after the raging Yangtze and Han rivers had overflowed as a result of a fortnight of continuous rains.

A conservative tally of the death toll could not be taken, although estimates ranged from 700 to 1,200 in the districts of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang alone. Tens of thousands of refugees presented the problem of feeding the homeless.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally

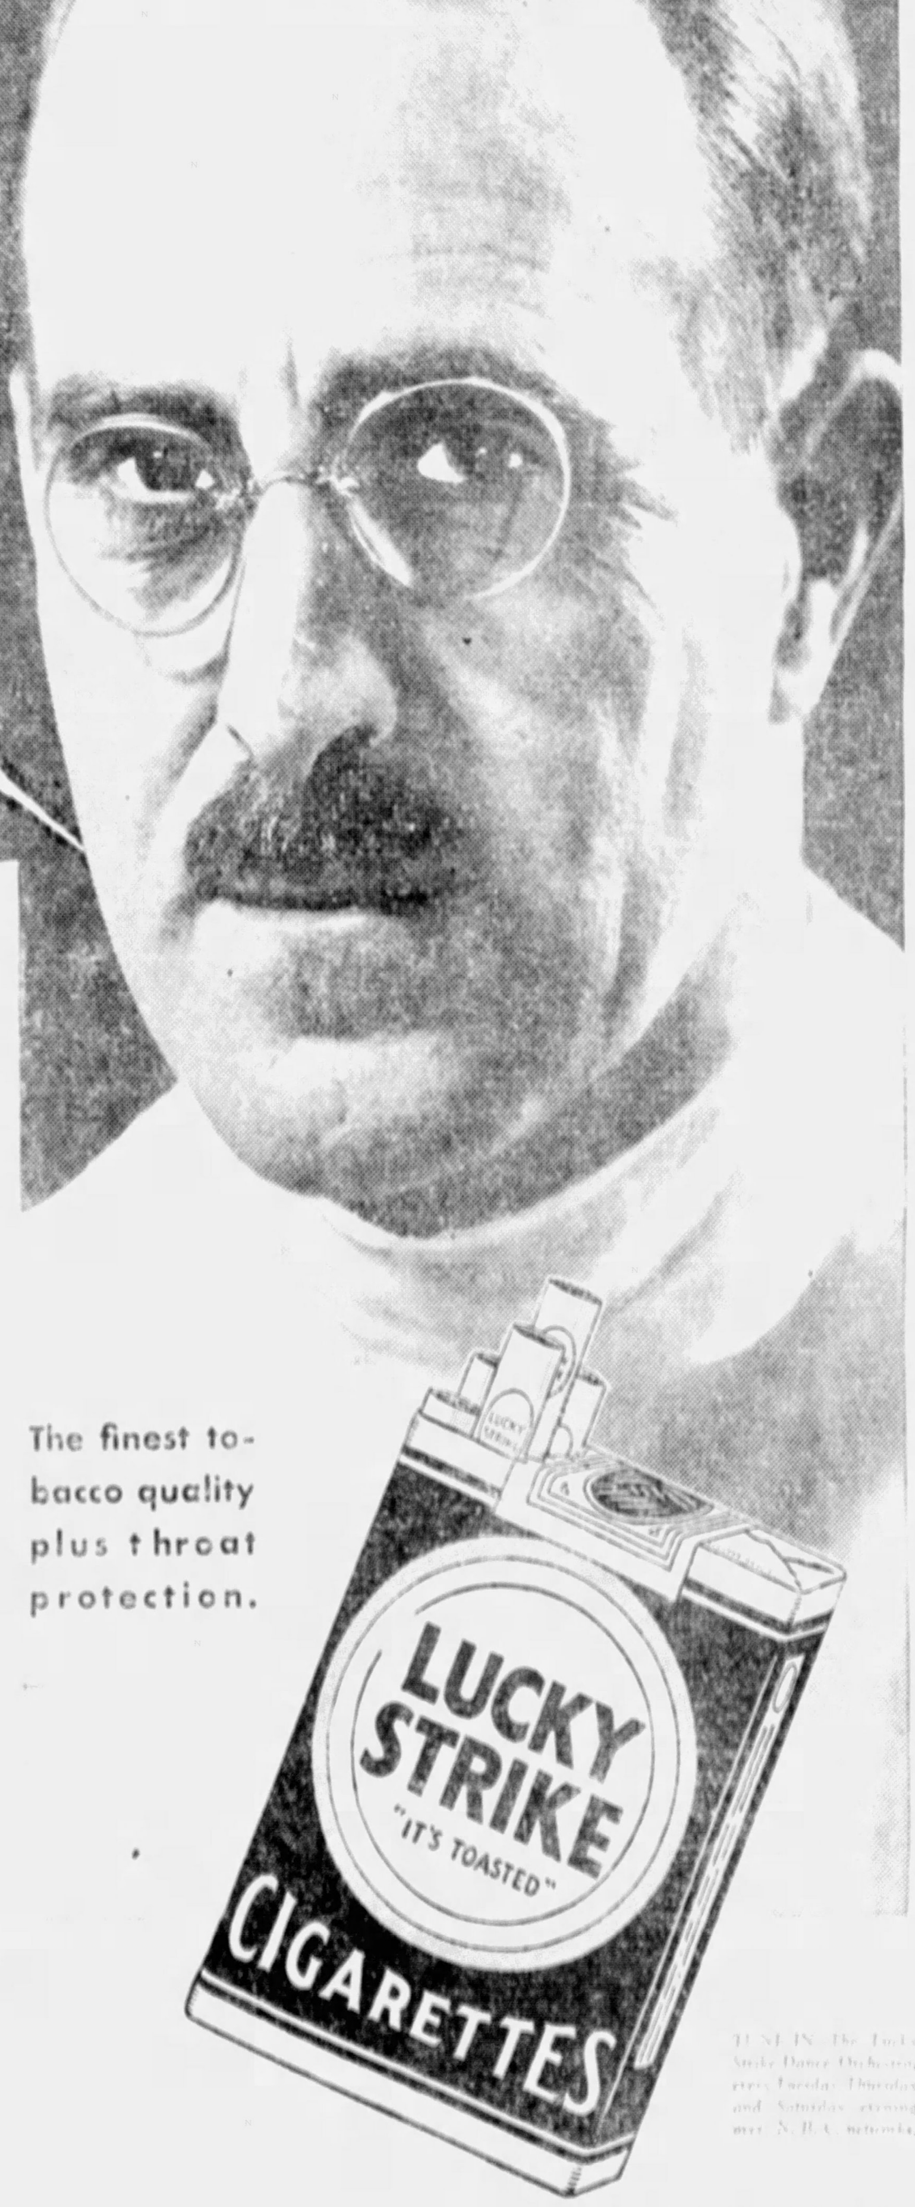
(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"



Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

AUGUST SALE

FURNITURE

When we went into the market for our August Sale, we found rare bargains, which we were quick to buy for you. It has been the most favorable market in our experience. And it is equally propitious a time for you to throw out the old furniture that has outgrown its usefulness and beauty, buying in the new. This is the year and August is the time. Our August Sale prices are lower by wide margins (from 10 to 50%) than today's regular low prices. We cordially urge you to visit our tenth floor to inspect the new furniture, whether you wish to buy or not.

Fathers to Officiate at Wedding Of Miss Gertrude Hess and Ernest L. Hax Tonight

Miss Gertrude Hess, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. I. Hess, of Perrysville avenue, and Ernest L. Hax, of Massillon, O., son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Hax, will be married this evening at 7 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran Church, North Side, with the fathers of the bride and bridegroom officiating.

The church will be decorated with green branches, palms and vases of garden flowers with tall single candle standards lighting the center aisle.

Miss Martha Siebhorn, of Columbus, cousin of the bride, will play the organ and Mrs. Arthur Stein, of Woodsville, O., cousin of the bride, will sing.

Down is Up Here

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a flesh colored gown with the bodice of Chantilly lace and the skirt of ruffled Russian silk net. She will wear lace mitts and a veil of flesh tulle caught with lace pink gardenias and orange blossoms. The veil was worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings. She will carry a Colonial bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Archibald A. Thompson, Jr., of Glenshaw, who will be matron of honor, will wear an ombre pink organdie frock with lace mitts and carry pink asters, snapdragons and rosebuds arranged in a Colonial bouquet.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Ruth Braun, of Zellenople, roommate of the bride at Capital University, Columbus, and Miss Catherine Kieffer, of Mars. They will wear dresses of pink net, made with fitted bodices and long full skirts embroidered in pastel wool flowers. They will wear blue lace mitts and carry Dresden bouquets.

Down is Up Here

The two flower girls, nieces of the bride, Jacqueline Jo Thompson and Billie Patton, will wear Kate Greenaway frocks of pink broidered percale organdie and carry small Dresden bouquets.

Jerry Atkinson, of Columbus, O., will be best man, and George Wahlenmaier, of Dayton, O., Charles Hax, of Massillon, O., and Archibald Thompson and William Patton, both of Pittsburgh, will be ushers.

The bride's mother will wear flowered chiffon with a brief jacket of transparent black velvet and a shoulder spray of orchids.

A reception for 50 guests in the Hess home will follow the ceremony. After a motor trip to Canada, the Adirondacks and through the New England States, the bride and bridegroom will be at home in Ann Arbor, avenue, West View.

The bride is a graduate of Capi-

TORMENTING CORNS CEASE TROUBLING

Why endure the torture of a corn—why ruin your fun and make your work a burden—when there is such a trustworthy way to end the pain and drive away its cause?

Rightly, naturally, you are afraid to chance harsh, rapid-fire "cures" and infection-inviting paring. But millions can tell you of a safe, sane treatment that brings relief without risk.

For 31 years these millions have used Blue-jay corn plasters to end corns. Instant relief comes the moment Blue-jay cushions the tingling spot and stops the chafing pressure. And that same moment Blue-jay's mild medication starts softening and loosening the corn.

Ask your druggist today for Blue-jay—the sensible treatment, made by Bauer & Black, noted surgical dressing manufacturers. Keep them handy—stop corns at the start! 25c a box.

Harris Elected President as Downtowners Organize

COUNCIL GETS FLOOD RELIEF PLANS

PICNIC REUNION PLANNED FOR AUGUST 29

Reminiscence Marks Meeting Of Persons Born in Area From Point to Fulton St.

Reminiscence was the keynote of a meeting of more than 300 Downtowners in the rooms of the Army Officers' William Penn Hotel last night.

People who were born and spent their childhood in the area from the Point to Fulton street, between Penn avenue Duquesne Way and the Old Second and Third parks, met to complete plans for reunion picnic. Senator Frank J. Harris presided.

Officers elected are president, Senator Harris; vice president, Leonard S. Levine; treasurer, Rogers Hanbery; secretary, F. Foley, and assistant secretary, Thomas E. Wall.

REUNION PLANNED

A resolution was ratified fixing the date to appeal to Mayor Butler on arrangements to name the place and date for the first reunion of the Downtowners. The reunion to take place on a Saturday, will probably be Aug. 29. The committee of the group will be Fred A. Speer, R. B. Uhrig, Joseph Kaufmann and William Penn.

Capt. Thomas M. Rees, one of the first active boys in the district, was the oldest person in attendance at the meeting. He is a member of the Rees Boat Co., which has been in business on the Monongahela river for more than 100 years.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other persons included: Mrs. Emma Lee, daughter of the late Chief of Police of Pittsburgh, who was born at 3 Second street and lived on Richard S. Rauh, the only descendant of a Downtowner, described also as a friend of George T. Marshall, president of the Marshall Enamel Company, who was born at 3 Hand street; Kate B. Werner, born at 631 Penn avenue; Dr. Edward Steren, Colwell street; Senator Frank J. Harris, High street; Mrs. Mathilda O'Hara, Seventh avenue; Leonard Levine, 2 Sixth street; Joseph B. Rees of Rees Cattle & Patterson, born and reared from an old machine shop; John Schlegel, Millvinegers and Charles and Louis Schlegel, 4 Sixth avenue; Edwin S. Graham, Ross street and Fred Avenue; Daniel D. McWilliams, Grant and Water streets; Frank L. Dorgan, 233 Second avenue; D. A. Rees, 63 Second avenue; Harry Diamond, Sixth street and Dr. H. J. Fricker, 339 Fifth avenue. Dr. Fricker, now a resident of Sarasota, Fla., traveled to Pittsburgh to attend the meeting. All but Dr. Fricker still live in Pittsburgh.

Lake Barrett, entertainer, also attended the meeting.

WAR MOTHERS' MEETING SET

War mothers of Allegheny County who will take part in the parade in their honor Saturday will assemble at the Fifth Avenue High School at 1 p. m., the committee announced yesterday. The parade will be in connection with the twelfth annual convention of the Eighteen Division which opens Thursday.

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Cochen, commander of the Third Infantry Brigade, regular army, at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and former commander of the 112th Infantry Regiment of Pittsburgh troops, will be the chief marshal.

French Couple Sue For Auto Injuries

A suit for $47,000 damages was on record in Federal Court today against Anthony Rosa, of Midland, for personal injuries alleged received by Mrs. Louise E. Gurian, of 1710 Shady avenue, as a result of an automobile collision. The woman's husband, Leger Gurian, joined in the action. The papers allege Mrs. Gurian suffered injuries when Rosa's truck collided with the Gurian machine near Youngstown, May 10. The Gurians are citizens of France.

JEWISH GROUP'S WELFARE FUND AID PRAISED

Entrance of Federation Into Relief Work Welcomed By Leaders of Movement

Many prominent Pittsburgh civic leaders, active in social work, have indorsed the entrance of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies into the membership of the Welfare Fund and have expressed themselves as favoring such participation.

We feel that the Jewish Federation will bring with it a host of friends and supporters for the community program financed through the Welfare Fund. This year more than ever before there is need for a unified appeal and a unified community response.

It is our earnest hope and desire that the members of the Jewish community of Allegheny County will not be found wanting in November when called upon to do their part in this work for humanity."

Joseph Dilworth, campaign chairman.

"With a winter of much hardship ahead, and a campaign budget of $5,000,000, the merging of the appeal of the Jewish Federation with that of the Welfare Fund comes at a psychological time."

F. J. Chesterman.

The joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and Emergency Association gains added interest and importance through the addition of the Jewish Federation to membership in the Welfare Fund. While relief of unemployment is the big problem facing the community this winter, it is also essential that programs of family service, public health work, child care, character-building, and care of the aged and handicapped be adequately financed during 1932."

Horace F. Baker.

"Indications are that we will need every dollar that can be raised for welfare and relief needs this winter. Entrance of the Jewish Federation into the Welfare Fund helps to clear the stage for an appeal which should have the support of every citizen in the community."

STATE TO TAKE STREETS HERE

Under provisions of the Cottrell-Everett parked state highway engineers are now checking 54.22 miles of Pittsburgh streets which the state proposes to take over and maintain as state highways.

However, the state assumes only limited responsibility. It will not regulate traffic, police the streets, clean or remove snow from them, contribute to the elimination of grade crossings or assume any obligation as the result of public utility franchises involving use of the streets.

Steam Lines Cause Fifth Avenue Alarm

Downtown firemen were called early today to the store of Bed-il Company, Fifth avenue, when Patrick Riley, a watchman for the store, noticed a strong vibration in the steam lines. Fearing an explosion, Riley called the fire alarm operator, who sent Fire Company No. 18 to the store.

Firemen were unable to locate any serious trouble.

Walker Orders War, Promptly Quits the Arena

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

After instructing the New York police to shoot straight, the Mayor will leave for a health resort.

He will go to Baden-Baden, the first stop this side of Worsen-Worsen.

The police have orders to shoot the bad boys in the coats on the theory that the pants ain't paid for.

Commissioner Mulrooney has the right idea about the thing. The commish challenged the gorillas thisaway:

"Let the coppers and the racketeers shoot it out on sight and see who has the biggest parade at the end of the year."

What about the innocent bystanders? Any bullets that smack them will not figure in the official scoring.

There are no innocent bystanders in New York. All of them are guilty of something if it is only eating with their knives. So the innocent shall suffer more than the guilty because the guilty can afford the best lawyers.

After all, as we pointed out years ago, the only possible disgrace in New York is to be run over by a hoss-and-wagon.

SISTERS MOURN LOSS OF DOLLS

The registration commission has just been refused $10,000 to stop election thieving. This board—that is, the one man who is the whole board—has solicited the highways and byways to get every man and boy of voting age put on the payroll. With the primaries approaching it seems decent demands this request be tabled until after September 15.

I think the right thing to do is to keep these men off the unemployed list. There's no politics these men weren't asked to vote for anyone. If we had $1,000,000 I would be for using it. It is all right for the Commissioner to ask 10 days' delay when he is getting $1,000 a month, but what about the fellow working at back breaking toil for 50 cents a hour? I am for keeping the fellow at work who needs work.

Regarding the Registration Commission, Armstrong said to McGovern:

"You're running that commission. We only asked them how they were going to spend their requested appropriation.

The children called them Sunshine dollies because Santa Claus taggeed them that way, they said.

Drys Seize Still, Men In South Hills Raid

A 200-gallon still was confiscated, prohibition agents reported in a raid yesterday on the home of Thomas Finnerty, at 1485 West Liberty avenue. Finnerty was held in bond.

Three raids in the Hill district yielded the agents small quantities of moonshine. Three men were released on their own recognizance.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 1.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

No news any more in depression, and no more news than truth in optimistic predictions. We not only cured our "big men" from predicting, but we just about cured 'em from thinking they was "big."

Debts are 'bout all cancelled, but our own beat is dying out. Grasshoppers are starving out. Nobody running for president on either side in '32 but Mr. Hoover, and even he may lose his passion for punishment by then. So it just looks like nothing ever happens in our country but interest and taxes.

Man Claiming to be Etna Banker Fined for Rum

An argument with a cab driver over a 20-cent call charge resulted in a man who said he was John S. Patterson, president of the First National Bank of Etna, being fined $50 and costs in the Mercer County Court yesterday. Judge J. A. McLaughry, before whom the man was arraigned for possessing liquor, imposed the fine.

The man whom Constable police said identified himself as the Etna banker was arrested July 7 for creating a disturbance on the street where he was arguing with the cab driver. At the police station it was reported that police found two quarts of whisky in his traveling bag.

Although Patterson, when arrested, presented a $10 bill with his signature on it as his credentials, he was given a hearing and held for court. Police say he threatened to remove several of the policemen from their jobs.

John S. Patterson, of the Park Mansions, Frew street, East End, who is president of the Etna bank, denied several weeks ago that he was the man who had been arrested.

Know the truth

before accepting substitutes for Kotex

DON'T be confused by the careless expression, "just like Kotex." Perhaps the substitute looks the same. But demand to know more. Where was this substitute made? By whom? How? Who stands back of it? Is it hygienically safe — the kind of sanitary pad a hospital would select? Last year more than 10,000,000 Kotex pads were used in hospitals. This is the pad that meets hospital requirements. You should be equally strict in selecting an accessory so definitely related to health.

RADIO PROGRAMS

The Loud Speaker
By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. Farm boys are to learn through radio the fundamentals of overtures. They won't have to include "William Tell." Not even a farm tot is unfamiliar with that. Good old "William Tell" musical backbone of a brass band's repertory.

When the brass is omitted bands lean most heavily upon Sir Arthur Sullivan, Victor Herbert, Reginald de Koven, with honors about even between the first two. Moreover, the trio three of the music racks wrote enough to satisfy the most varied of tastes. Hollywood once fired ambition in the hearts of youth; now it is radio. The microphone is inspiring amateur composers, amateur singers and entertainers all hoping the radio sea will bring in their ship.

The odds, of course, are against them. Only one or two will succeed, and about those will be written new legends of the romances of "I-Knew-Him-When" school.

One by one the aviators come into the broadcasting corral—its Frank Hawks now—to be managed and exploited by radios shoguns. Wish the shoguns would try their wiles upon the palookas of the prize ring. They might make boxing more of a sport, less of a racket. . . . Too bad the microphones weren't pointed to Shaw as he talked to the comrades of Moscow. . . . But Moscow is almost as far away from the broadcasters of America as Mars. There's not much satisfaction in a broadcast of a stadium concert that in half an hour is laid aside for the breath of commerce. . . . Broadcasters are proud to relay musical programs from the Mozart Festival in Salzburg. But Mozart himself is strangely neglected.

Not getting British authorities to cooperate under the direction of the radio heads. But [illegible] time when [illegible] Not have the [illegible] on the box office yet, [illegible] the capture of the M. Deauville. It has taken radio 10 years to share the rich baritone of John Charles Thomas for a regular series of broadcasts. Dullest of speeches on the radio are those aired at banquets for distinguished persons. For every one that is witty and graceful and original there are a hundred that are just so much applesauce. Keenest observation, quickest thinking yet recorded in a radio program were the work of announcers of the Air Corps sham attack on New York. Only one guest conductor became so enthusiastic in a radio concert as to break a baton. It was Oscar Straus, the Viennese melody man.

Pimples Caused Disfigurement on Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"The trouble began with pimples [illegible] on my forehead. They were large and red, and festered and scaled over. Later they formed sore eruptions and disfigured my face. When I stooped down at my work they pained terribly. This caused disfigurement for a time and lasted about two months.

"I tried other remedies but they did not seem to bring any results. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they brought relief in less than two weeks, and in about four weeks I was completely healed." Signed: Miss Hilda Kerstetter, R. 1, Box 30, Treverton, Pa., Feb. 3, '31.

How to Keep Well

The Nation's Program to Safeguard Children

Recently President Hoover inaugurated the first White House Conference on Child Health and Protection. This conference was brought about after many months of careful planning and study by the leading specialists of the country.

Dr. Copeland

The conference was unusual. Never before has there been such complete program looking to improvement in the general health and condition of our young citizens.

At the opening of the conference President Hoover clearly stated the purpose of the gathering. He said that the fundamental purpose of this conference is to set forth an understanding of those safeguards which will assure to the child health in mind and body.

In his concluding report Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur included 26 fundamental principles for child health and protection. Space does not permit me to recite all but the following are important:

Every prospective mother should have reliable information and medical supervision during the prenatal period, competent care at confinement.

Every child should receive periodical health examinations before and during the school period.

Every child should have frequent dental examinations and care. Every child should be protected from the crushing diseases. He is entitled to be protected from impure milk and food.

Every child should have proper sleeping quarters, adequate hours of sleep and play. The parents should receive information as to the needs of children in these matters.

Every child should attend a school which has proper seating, lighting, ventilation and sanitation. For crowded cities open air kindergartens and nursery schools should be provided as a supplement to home care.

At the next meeting of this conference, and completing the program, will undoubtedly be announced. In order that the conference may be successful, it is necessary for everyone, from the President down, to cooperate. Parents, as mothers and fathers must do their share.

sleep in the house until I have definite news of those fellows. Of course my job is to stay up here with the children, but you both will want to go downstairs I know.

Right you are Katrina Lillian said. Hustle into something pronto Madge. I'll be with you in a jiffy.

We made our way downstairs where we found Dickey and Harris and my father on the veranda.

At our entry my father drew out seats for us even as he shook his head at us in reproof.

You should not have arisen he said. There is no need.

Do you think we could have stayed in bed with anything like this going on? Lillian demanded. What do you think we're made of?

Nerves and nerve Dicky answered for him.

Under his flippancy there was the same tension which had been in his father's voice. Harris I'm sure knew nothing.

I wish I knew who those fellows from North Haven [illegible] of going to the [illegible] my father said soberly.

Probably they had no other choice Dicky suggested. Their whole attack upon the bank was predicated upon the surprise of the thing. They no doubt planned to rush down one of those side streets which would bring them down on the Easthampton turnpike. Then they could have doubled and gotten back to the main road.

That was the scheme which Curwin and I planned to thwart my father said. There were men in cars planted on each of those streets far enough back so the marauders could not see them. The car was too large to turn quickly so they could not have come back to Main street if they had entered one of the smaller ones. But Curwin says they beat it toward North Haven. Now why?

Continued Tomorrow.

Household Hints

The only successful way of washing overalls and still keeping one's good disposition is to lay them flat on the washboard and scrub vigorously with a stiff scrubbing brush.

Put the new glassware in a pan of cold water and heat gradually until the water has reached the boiling point. Remove from stove and let the glass cool in the water. This process will greatly reduce the chances of breakage.

To be able to do two things at once save time when preserving by putting an asbestos mat directly over the burner on which the preserves are cooking. Then you can proceed with the rest of the housework without worry of the delectable food sticking or burning.

A Quiet Manner and Low Voice Enhance a Woman's Charm—Fay King

By FAY KING.

We have all noticed the difference between a matinee and a night crowd at a theater.

In the afternoons when the majority of the audience are women the shrill chatter during intermission is quite deafening.

At night when the women are escorted by their sweethearts or husbands there is no such shrieking, shouting and cackle.

Why? Because the women want to make a good impression and be a credit to their men in the eyes of others.

This proves that women know very well which is the more attractive manner and they should always, even among themselves and in their own home circle, be at their best.

A quiet manner and a low voice are charms that never fail or fade.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Signatures

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you kindly advise me what the correct signature for a married woman is when opening a personal bank account, registering at a hotel when alone, writing to a new acquaintance and when writing a business letter.

2. Also please advise how to eat the different varieties of cheese served at public dining places.

GRATEFUL.

1. The signature for her checks: Mary Smith Brown. Or, if she prefers: Mary Brown.

The signature on the hotel register: Mrs. John Jay Brown, Baltimore.

The signature when writing to a new acquaintance:

Very sincerely yours,
Mary Smith Brown.
Mrs. John Jay Brown.

The signature when writing a business or professional letter:

Very truly yours,
Mary Smith Brown.
Mrs. John Jay Brown.

2. Eat cheese with a fork or if you prefer eat cheese with crackers or bread or fruit with a knife and fork.

Monogrammed Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A question has come up as to whether or not it is proper to have initials on wearing apparel or not. The garment in question is a man's shirt. One person says it is correct to place his initials either on the sleeves or pocket. The other person says it is improper to have initials on wearing apparel (handkerchiefs excepted) no matter what or where.

J. G.

It is correct for a man to have his shirts monogrammed if he wishes. The initials are usually embroidered on the lower part of the sleeve.

Nights for Calling

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What are the proper nights for a young man to call on his girl friend? Personally, I think it depends wholly on the parties concerned. Sunday night being understood, of course.

WONDERING.

This depends entirely on one's wish and convenience. It would be a brave third person who would dare make a suggestion.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Wrinkles? Oil 'em and freeze 'em. At night apply a heavy emollient, slap the face briskly, hammer it with finger tips. Sponge on an astringent, skate over the celestial countenance with a piece of ice. In the morning use more ice.

Ordinary oatmeal can be substituted for soap if soap stains the skin, as sometimes happens when there is an inclination to flare into irritations. Cleansing oils can be used. They can be applied and removed in a few minutes. They dig out atmospheric dust, refine the texture of the complexion.

Too much sugar in the diet will produce headaches not unlike those caused by drinking alcoholic beverages. Sugar is concentrated food; it is a fat builder; the human system does not need it in large quantities. The time to eat bonbons is after the meal, not between meals. Girls who are plagued with pimples and blackheads should eat sweets and starches sparingly. Let them substitute fruit juices. They will see results.

Moth patches frequently appear when hands and complexion have had too much exposure to the ultra violet rays of the sun. Mild bleaches will scatter them if applied before the spots get a firm hold; rig in for a long stay. Use rosewater and peroxide of hydrogen, of each one tablespoonful. Apply with cotton.

Calloused spots on fingernail cuticle should be swabbed with oil sprinkled over with pumice stone; dig gently with the orange wood stick to loosen the dead scales. Best to soak the hands for five or 10 minutes in warm soap suds before treatment. Clip away cutaneous rags and tag ends with pointed, curved scissors.

One way to grow a full high chest is to yodel. Or if you can't yodel sing. Professional singers have full chests. They understand how to breath properly, drinking the air down into the deepest cells of the lungs. Posture is necessary, if chest walls are not to weaken. Hold the body tall. Don't let the backbone soften on the top.

Pitcher Larry French a Daddy—Four Goose-Eggers of the Buccaneers--What? Another Lefthander!

ERVIN BRAME — GLENN SPENCER — LARRY FRENCH — RAY KREMER

The Four Horsemen of Notre Dame never had anything on these Four Goose-Eggers of the Buccaneers when it came to flashing their stuff. The Corsair pitching quartet has shut out the opposition in the last four games for a total of 40 consecutive scoreless innings. Back in 1903 the Pirates blanked the opposition for 56 successive innings. Look at that smile on Larry French's map. Bet he's thinking of the new heir to the French hoorah!

GROVE WINS 85 OF LAST 100 GAMES

LEFTY GROVE never has broken any records for games won in succession nor for games won in a season, and he may not succeed this year, but from the angle of percentage of victories he surely is contributing some new and startling figures to the baseball books. You don't fully appreciate his worth until you look at his defeat column. Among the pitchers who rolled up greater victory totals, few boasted records on the "lost" side of the ledger to compare with that of Connie Mack's great lefthander.

Lefty Grove

For any given number of games, Grove's percentage compares favorably with, if it does not excel, the best performances of the past. For example, in winning his twenty-second victory of the season yesterday, against only two defeats, he made his percentage for the year .917. No other modern hurler in the majors ever won 22 of his first 24 games in a pennant campaign, or practically 92 per cent. The same remarkably low average of defeats has been featuring Grove's record ever since he rose to his present ranking as the greatest southpaw of his time.

HOW LONG HAS it been since any other big league pitcher won 85 out of 100 straight games? Long enough to keep you guessing as to whether or not it was ever done by any modern. But that's what Grove has accomplished. Of his last 100 games pitched, dating back to July 11, 1928, and not counting world series engagements, he lost only 15.

Lefty won 15 of his last 17 games in 1928; won 20 and lost 6 in 1929; won 28 and lost 5 in 1930, and has won 22 and lost 2 so far this season, a winning percentage of .850 for more than three years of pitching. Since August 10, 1927, Grove has won exactly 100 games, and against those victories he has lost only 21 contests, or a winning percentage of .826 for four years of pitching.

GROVE'S COMPLETE RECORD for major league service from his entry in 1925 up to date shows 137 games won against only 59 lost, a mark of .699. In other words, he has won practically 70 per cent of his games since he came into the big show.

With 13 straight wins to his credit, the Mackian southpaw has a chance to equal or beat the American League record of 16 successive wins, set by Walter Johnson and Smoky Joe Wood in 1912. He also needs to average only a little better than a victory a week to reach the mark of 31 games won in a season, set by Jim Bagby for Cleveland in 1920, the highest number won in either league since Grover Alexander amassed 33 in 1916.

THE DOUBLE VICTORY over the Senators gave the A's the huge lead of 12 games in the American League pennant race, such a tremendous advantage at this late stage of the season that, even with Mule Haas lost for three weeks, the Macks may be considered as good as in. Even if they only get a split in their remaining 50 games they will pass the hundred mark in wins and wind up with 101 victories against 53 defeats. In that event, to beat them out, it would be necessary for the Senators to win three out of every four games from now until the end of the season, or 39 out of 52.

Bill Brenzel

JUDGING FROM THE glowing reports of his work that have been received during the season, as well as the fact that five other major league clubs were after him, the Pirate management has picked up one of the prize young catchers of the year in the purchase of Bill Brenzel from the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League.

Joe Devine showed in his eight years as a Pirate scout that he rarely goes wrong in his estimates of young players, and the strong recommendation he gave Brenzel in advising President Dreyfuss to buy him carries more weight, in the opinion of local fans, than all the publicity the youngster has received.

DEVINE HAS BEEN in a particularly good position to judge the merits of Brenzel, as for a month he has been manager of the club of which the 22-year-old catcher is a mainstay. If the player were lacking in smartness or any of the other requisites of a first-class backstop, Joe would have found it out quickly.

Brenzel's hitting fell off around the first of July, but at last reports he had risen to an average of .279 and was still climbing, evidence that the change Devine made in his batting style will lead to Idle yesterday on account of the rain, the Pirates and Cardinals will make an attempt to get together this afternoon in a single game. The two clubs are slated to tangle in a bargain bill tomorrow, the dual attraction being arranged after the cancellation of yesterday.

Jewel Ens and Gabby Street expect to stand pat on the slab selections of yesterday. That means a couple of master right-handers will be in action upon Forbes Field. Heinie Meine and Jess Haines are the sharpshooters who hold the slab slips.

Meine will endeavor to maintain the record spurt of shutout pitchers which the Pittsburgh staff has shown in the last four battles. French, Kremer, Spencer and Brame have turned in runless triumphs, helping to put the Pirates a hard fight in front of Memphis ask him to help the National League champions in check, especially at a time when they are trying to repeat their feature. Heinie, nevertheless, has blanked the Cardinals on two occasions this year.

Griff said, "Who is your favorite pitcher?"

IN BEING SHUT out four times in succession, the Reds, who had not scored in 40 consecutive innings up to today, tied the all-time major league record held jointly by Cleveland and the Boston Nationals. The latter drew four straight blanks on May 19, 21, 22 and 23, 1906, three of them being done by the Pirates, who also contributed three to Cincinnati's present string. The Reds were whitewashed four times in succession July 30, 31, August 1 and 2, 1908, three times by the Phillies and once by the Giants. With a total of 12 up to date, the Hoosiers have suffered more shutouts this season than any other club in either of the big leagues. The Braves are next with 10. The Red Sox have been the chief victims in the American League with seven runless defeats charged against them.

Ellsworth Vines

IT TAKES MORE than a flash to play that kind of tennis two years running. Perhaps Vines again will fail to go through the season without stumbling. But whether he is beaten or not this fall, experts from the University of Southern California have convinced most enthusiasts that he is destined to go high and far in the annals of international tennis. He reports, he still lacks polish. So did Bill Johnston and many others at the same stage of their careers. But Vines has the native stuff of which champions are made, and he is certain to be a national championship bidder later, if not this year, and a player who cannot be overlooked when future Davis Cup teams are made up.

VON ELM RAPS KIWANIS CLUB AMATEUR RULE IN GOLF

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—George Von Elm, [illegible] golfer, cited in a copyrighted signed story in the New York Evening Post, declares the "amateur" golf rule in this country needs a lot of revision.

Commenting on the question of expenses for an amateur golfer, Von Elm writes:

Amateurism on the links must be, in the final analysis, purely a matter of finances. If you're a rich man or come from a family where pennies do not have to be counted, you can be a real amateur. I know probably two amateurs in the United States.

Every golfer whose game makes him a championship prospect knows there are ways and means to circumvent the amateur law as laid down by the United States Golf Association—and yet remain within the law.

After citing methods of making money such as the Stock market and literary work, Von Elm adds:

The only way such tactics can be done away with is to modify the amateur law to a working principle of modern life. The rule is outmoded today. There is no golfer among the top notchers who doesn't capitalize the game, willingly or otherwise.

GOLFERS DUEL AT WILDWOOD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Pittsburgh Kiwanis Club has its big event at the Wildwood Country Club, and the annual Washington County championship, which this year will include Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties, gets under way at the Monongahela Valley Country Club today.

They are the only district competitions slated outside of the qualifying round in the annual amateur invitation tourney which opens at the Bedford Springs Golf Club.

Tomorrow the Hannastown Golf Club, Thomas S. Jamison's pride and joy, will be the venue for the annual fathers and sons duel for the Jamison-Lynch trophy. The event will be marked by a fathers and daughters tourney to be held in conjunction with the men's event.

Billy Burke, National open champion, will team up with Jack Cawsey, home club pro, against George Von Elm, National open runner-up, and Bill Souter, Jacksonville (Fla.) pro, in an exhibition match at the Chautauqua Golf Club, Thursday, and on Friday Burke and Von Elm will appear against Capt. V. A. Smith, home pro, and another instructor, at the New Castle Field Club.

The Valley Heights Golf Club holds a women's invitation tourney tomorrow.

The St. Clair Country Club has slated a mixed foursome tourney for Thursday, while on Friday a Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania one-day tourney is to be held at the Butler Country Club.

MR. BOYD'S interest in the history of the revolutionary period does not prevent his maintaining an active interest in present day efficiency.

From his motor car he demands the highest possible performing efficiency. And to attain that end, he specifies Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel.

Amoco-Gas had made history on its own account on the road and in the air. It has figured in many notable record-breaking achievements—in hill-climbing, in speed tests and in famous overseas flights—too many to be listed here.

PARKS DRAW MADE

PLAY BEGINS TOMORROW AT FRICK PARK

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Official draw for the inter-park elimination series of the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships was made last evening, the pairings and hours of play being released herewith.

Preliminary round contests will get under way on the fine clay courts of Frick Park tomorrow afternoon with semi-final competition slated for Thursday and final battles for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph men's and women's singles challenge cups and trips as Steel City municipal racquet representatives to the National Public Parks championships at Detroit the week of August 17 booked for Saturday.

CHAMPS DRAW BYES

Fortunes of war gave both Frank Broida and Mrs. Jean Atteberger, defenders of the 1930 crowns, from necessity of minueling in first round tussles. Broida, Frick ace and number one in the masculine seeding and Mrs. Atteberger, Olympia star and first ranking feminine contender, landed byes through a toss of a coin, second seeded contestant in each division losing the toss and thus being placed at top of lower half and required to battle through a match ere earning right to cavort in the semi-finals. Jack Redmond, Highland southpaw, is second on the men's list, while Letitia Schmidt, Schenley luminary and runner-up of a year ago, cops similar distinction among the fair performers.

Opening the morrow's card will be women's initial bracket fray involving Dorothy Miller, hard-driving Highland entrant with her Frick namesake, Jeannette Miller, the joust being slated for 2 p. m. An hour later in the men's sector, Karl Beilstein, repeat winner at West Park, will attempt conclusions with Harry Wald, scholastic dark-horse who forged from the pack to annex Schenley laurels.

CREIGHTON, REDMOND MEET

At 6 o'clock, twin bargains are on the bill, Redmond encountering Billy Creighton, Olympia aspirant and former St. Mary's of the Mount High School mainstay, while on an adjoining netbank Miss Schmidt will meet a dangerous opponent in Mildred Klages (nee premier of West Park).

The survivor of the Miller-Miller affair will meet Mrs. Atteberger tomorrow with the triumphant party to the Schmidt-Klages engagement taking on Ruth Staiger of Riverview Park. Broida awaits the outcome of the Beilstein-Wald seance and Al McCorkle, of Riverview, rounds out the penultimate frame by tilting with the Redmond-Creighton victor. All men's netees in the inter-park series will be scheduled for the full championship three-sets-out-of-five route, the women, of course, adhering to the regulation best-of-three system.

The pairings follow:

MEN'S SINGLES

WOMEN'S SINGLES

First round: Jeannette Miller, Frick vs. Dorothy Miller, Highland; Letitia Schmidt, Schenley, vs. Mildred Klages, West. Semi-final round: Miss Jean Atteberger, Olympia vs. winner of Miller-Miller match; winner of Schmidt-Klages match vs. Ruth B. Staiger, Riverview.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Seventeen years as a sandlot football player and still going strong. . . . That's the record of George F. (Whitey) Dummer, star tackle of the West View team, one of the best of the district independent elevens. . . . And, at that, he isn't the dean of the hardy local sandlot gridders, being antedated a bit by Frank (Red) Grayber, brother of Al Grayber, the local boxing referee and former boxer and promoter of sandlot baseball and football teams. . . . Red, still active as a lineman on the West View team, started out a year or so before Dummer. . . . Like Red Grayber, Whitey Dummer has a brother mixed up in the boxing racket. . . . He is Bill Dummer, former manager of boxers, now matchmaker at Hickey Park, Millvale.

Whitey Dummer

In all of his years of playing on the more or less bumpy and icy football fields that fall to the lot of the sandlot players, Whitey Dummer never has been seriously injured. . . . He has lost only a day or two from work now and then while nursing bruises or torn ligaments or a broken finger or two. . . . And he has been named on the all-star teams of the district nine or 10 seasons and annually for the last five years. . . . In his first season with a big team, the old Strip eleven, he made the second all-independent outfit.

Dummer began his football career with the Peerless Seconds on the North Side in 1913. . . . In 1914 he played with the Dillons, and in 1915 with Peerless. . . . The next three seasons saw him with the Brighton team, and in 1918 he joined the Valley Club team of Lawrenceville, on which Mike Shortley was the star. . . . The next two seasons he played for the Strip A. A., along with Pat O'Malley, Babe Kelly and others whose fame was widespread, and since then, he has played for Valley-Strip, Bradley Eagles, McKeesport Olympics and West View.

Brother Bill Dummer also played sandlot football for a number of seasons, with the Peerless team, the Grenets and the Townsends, and another brother, Abe, played until he was forced out by injuries 10 years ago. . . . Whitey is the youngest of the brothers, and he figures he should be good for two or three more seasons of playing, but he already is looking to the future and will blossom forth as a football official this fall, starting in handling high school games.

Whitey, strictly a product of the sandlots, like Mose Kelsch, the ex-team fullback of the North Side Majestics, Graybel and Roddy Cole, the West View fullback, thinks the edge is with the sandlotters as against the college players when it comes to being able to take the bumps. . . . "I have played with and against a lot of former college stars," he said yesterday, "and I have noticed that, with a few exceptions, the collegians do not go into the sport with the same enthusiasm or even earnestness as the confirmed sandlotters. . . . On the contrary, they play cautiously and last a short time, earning what money they can in a hurry and hoping to get out without being hurt. When it comes to consistent good and hard playing, give me the sandlotters every time."

"I asked Dummer to single out for me the best player he ever encountered in his playing as a sandlotter, and, without hesitation, he mentioned Russell Stein, former W. A. J. captain. "He was smart and tough," Dummer observed. "I saw at once that I would have my hands full playing opposite him. To offset his shifts play, I threw myself at his ankles from the start and pinned him. "Is that the way you play, buddie?" he asked. I replied it was, and he told me to get ready to take care of myself. It wasn't long before his cleats were churning around in the scrimmages and both of my hands were cut and bleeding. This was in a game in which I played for the McKeesport Olympics against Steubenville."

Dummer, who scaled around 145 pounds when he began playing in the backfield at the age of 15, now weighs 180 in playing trim and his idea of something soft in football is being a tackle or an end. He doesn't agree with the popular conception that the linemen are the workhorses of a football team and that the backs have an easier job. . . . It's all in knowing how to play the position, is his view. A job as a hammer man in the LaBelle works of the Crucible Steel Company, on the North Side, keeps him toughened up for the rigorous pastime.

Dummer's favorite story about himself concerns the time he was propositioned by Pat O'Malley to play for the Strip team, a dozen years ago. . . . He was playing for Brighton for a split of the season's receipts, which didn't figure to amount to much. During the first half, O'Malley, attracted by Dummer's work, asked him how he'd like to play for the Strip team for $15 a game. . . . "Okay," replied Whitey, thrilled at the thought of being paid real money to play his favorite sport. "Do you want me to start in the second half?" . . . Brother Bill Dummer was coaching the Brighton team. . . . And was he sore when he heard about Whitey even thinking of changing uniforms between halves for half of a $15 fee!"—HARRY KECK.

Hearst Publications Earn $2.64 for Half Year

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

INVESTMENT INTEREST IS CENTERING on depression proof companies as current business conditions bring to light the weaknesses of many leading corporations. Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., is one of the organizations which has established an outstanding record for the maintenance of earnings at a high rate during the present year.

During a period when a large proportion of the strongest companies have failed to earn dividends, Hearst Consolidated Publications have covered dividend requirements on the 7 per cent Class A stock over three times.

Consolidated net income after deducting all charges for the first seven accounting periods of 1931, covering January 1 to July 12 inclusive, was $5,267,959. This was equivalent to $2.64 a share on the entire authorized issue of $50,000,000 of Class A stock to be presently outstanding.

Dividend Requirement 87½ Cents

PROFIT OF $2.64 A SHARE was three times the dividend requirement of 87½ cents a share for the period. The Class A stock of $25 par value is entitled to 7 per cent cumulative dividends each year and in addition participates with the common stock in additional dividends up to a maximum of 3 per cent annually after the common has received $1.75 a share in any one year. The Class A stock is callable at $30 a share. There are 2,000,000 common shares of no par value outstanding.

The Class A stock was first offered to employes and the public over a year ago. The corporation is now approaching its fifth quarterly dividend payment with an excellent record of earnings. This is particularly impressive in view of the fact that the financing was undertaken during a year of extreme deflation.

Controls Important Papers

HEARST CONSOLIDATED Publications, Inc., owns some of the most successful newspapers in the Hearst group of publications. These are the New York Evening Journal, Chicago Evening American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Detroit Times, San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Oakland Post-Enquirer, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the American Weekly. In addition the American Newsprint Company is owned.

The entire outstanding amounts of stock in these papers are owned by Hearst Consolidated Publications. The papers extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast and serve many of the major centers of population.

Jersey Standard Cuts Bunker Oil

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has made a reduction of 5½ cents a barrel in Fuel oil and Diesel oil at North Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports. The new price of bunker oil is 75 cents in New York harbor and 60 cents on the Gulf, while Diesel oil is priced at $1.45 in New York harbor and $1.30 on the Gulf.

N. Y. Exchange Loan Total Shows Drop

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The New York Stock Exchange reports collateral borrowings of members at the close of business on July 31 amounted to $3,344,092,754, a new low record since publication of this series of figures began in 1926, and a decrease of $47,232,168 compared with the total on June 30, the previous low. On July 31, 1930, these loans amounted to $3,689,482,297.

EXPORT COPPER PRICE CUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP).—The price of export copper was reduced a quarter of a cent a pound today to 9 cents c. i. f. European base ports.

The reduction placed the foreign price on a parity with 9 cents, delivered in the domestic market, a level at which producers have been holding their metal.

Some custom smelters have been offering the metal at slightly lower prices, and it was reported in the trade that some sales from smelters was available yesterday at 9 cents, although it was not learned whether any sales had been made at that figure.

General Cable Corporation has reduced its copper wire prices ¼ cent a pound.

two out of three from the Cardinals of course they would like to clean up on the whole series but they will be satisfied to grab the "rubber" contest.

Looking ahead to next season the Pittsburgh club last night announced the purchase of Catcher William H. Brenzel of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League. The newest addition to the roster will not report until next spring. He is a youth of 22 who has made a big reputation in the faraway circuit of baseball.

Brenzel comes to the Pirates largely through the efforts of Joe Devine, Pirate scout, who is the manager of the Mission club. Devine knew that five major league teams were interested in Brenzel so he advised Owner Dreyfuss to purchase the player.

BLOSSOMED THIS YEAR

The Coast Leaguer has been doing duty in that circuit for more than two years, but he started at such an early period he did not blossom until this season. Devine, however, watched him through the years and after he became the pilot of the Mission team less than one month ago, Joe began to work on the impressive catcher. Brenzel had some bad weaknesses at the plate which Joe ironed out and the lad began to shape up like a real hitter. When Joe realized the youngster grasped the ideas quickly he put the O. K. on him for the Burros and soon afterward a deal for his services was negotiated.

Brenzel is five feet nine inches in height and weighs 168 pounds. He is a right-hand batter.

Meantime the Burros are moving along with only two receivers, but Hal Finney is at Hazleton on a 24-hour notice and therefore available for any emergency.

The all-around performances of Eddie Phillips and Earl Grace have been of great aid to the Burros in their winning drive of the past few weeks. Grace had little or no chance to break in at Chicago, but there was an opportunity for him here and he grabbed it.

Secretary Clarence Lloyd of the Cardinals announced yesterday that the Cardinals had been awarded Pitcher Ray Moss on waivers from Brooklyn. Moss, Lloyd said earlier in the season, was awarded to Boston but reverted to Brooklyn. Since the Cardinals already have the summer limit of 25 players, it is regarded as likely that Moss will be sent to one of their minor league farms.

GOVERNMENTS STILL PAYING FOR WAR

Effects of Post-Armistice Currency Inflation Also Apparent After 17 Years

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 4

Seventeen years after the armistice which brought the World War to a close, the governments of Europe are still paying for the war.

The effects of post-armistice currency inflation also are apparent after 17 years.

Mr. Rukeyser

These are two of the principal reasons why the nations of Europe are unable to make a complete recovery from the economic effects of the war, despite the passage of many years since the armistice was signed.

These two factors, which have not been generally understood in this country, are responsible for the present financial crisis in Europe, which has caused the withdrawal of billions of dollars of foreign credits from Germany, Austria, Hungary and other countries.

The reparations payments which Germany was required to make under the Versailles treaty, and the huge debts which were incurred by the governments of Europe during the war, have not been paid off, nevertheless, as many persons have assumed. Instead, they have been largely wiped out by the inflation of currencies and the repudiation of debts.

George Eastman, president of the Eastman Kodak Company, and one of the leading industrialists of the United States, has just returned from Europe, where he made a study of the economic situation. He has written a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post, in which he points out:

"A factor out of the past which has tended to aggravate the present crisis has been the memory of the great inflation when the mark and other Central European currencies became practically worthless.

DISTRUST CURRENCIES

"This memory of past losses has made the people of these countries quick to distrust their own currencies and induced a flight of capital by domestic owners which has been a factor in the crisis along with the withdrawal of foreign credits.

"The instinct of self-protection is strong in an individual. He does not definitely know what others are doing, but is surrounded by alarms. While he may have a patriotic inclination to co-operate with the public authorities in their policies, in the absence of organization he is likely to feel that the contribution which he can possibly make while much to him and his dependents is of small importance in the general situation. Hence the necessity for the action which the government has now taken to control the sale of foreign exchange."

OIL PRODUCERS PLAN AGENCY

AUSTIN, Aug. 4. Independent producers in East Texas are formulating plans for organizing an oil sales agency similar to the Oil Producers Sales Agency of California which is credited with controlling about two-fifths of that state's allowable.

For the purpose of removing any legal obstacles that may be in the way of the proposed agency a bill has been introduced in the Legislature by Representative J. R. Donnell, allowing the formation of co-operative associations between persons, firms or associations of them for the purpose of co-operating in the production, purchasing or selling of mineral or other natural products from the ground and agricultural products and selling of general merchandise.

Collective bargaining through the proper channels would have a beneficial effect and would be an improvement over the present chaotic conditions of marketing the oil of independent producers in East Texas, according to I. A. Cass, who is taking the lead in promoting the new organization.

INDIANA BASIS TEMPORARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. In connection with the reduction in dividend payment, Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, said:

"We hope and believe the reduction will be temporary only. We decided upon the lower rate in furtherance of our conservative policy of maintaining a strong position during adjustments such as the business world is now witnessing."

"Our action is not occasioned by pessimism regarding the outlook, although it is still difficult to see what lies ahead for business in general. We have confidence in the future. The prospect of betterment in the oil industry is stronger at present than it has been for many months.

"Standard of Indiana's own business is showing developments which must be regarded as encouraging. The trend as to volume of sales is better than it has been for some time, though with lower price realization. Motor oils are registering improvement and a better relative demand for factory lubricants is an indication of hope for greater movement of the wheels of industry at large.

"We have proceeded in the belief that we can best serve the long-time interests of stockholders by reducing the dividend at this time."

Gold Production Higher for 1930

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. Output of gold in the United States during 1930 was reported at 2,285,603 ounces, valued at $47,247,600, an increase from 1929 of $1,596,200 in value, according to figures compiled by the United States Mints and Assay offices in co-operation with the Bureau of Mines.

Silver output in 1930 totaled 50,748,127 ounces, valued at $19,538,029, a decrease of 10,579,741 ounces compared with 1929.

Hog Supply Good At Lower Prices

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. The packing industry is assured of a continued low-priced supply of hogs during the next marketing year, beginning October 1. Present indications are that slaughter from pigs raised this year will be greater than the average for the four preceding marketing years.

MOTOR OUTPUT OFF IN JULY

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. Auburn Automobile July shipments were 2,580 Auburn and Cord cars, against 3,205 in June and 646 in July, 1930. Seven months shipments total 30,240 cars, or 16,549 more than for the entire year 1930.

DETROIT, Aug. 4. July production of Chevrolet cars and trucks totaled 66,307 units, compared to 84,597 in June and 58,690 in July, 1930.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. July shipments of Nash Motors Company amounted to 6,039 cars, compared with approximately the same number in June. Shipments of about 12,500 cars thus far in Nash's third quarter, which includes June, July and August, compare with shipments of around 11,000 cars in the entire third quarter of last year. Unfilled orders for 990 cars were carried over into August.

Nickel Business To Show Pickup

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. Robert C. Stanley, president of International Nickel Company of Canada, said that while the management believes that the company's business will show improvement in the last half this year, there is at present a restricted demand for nickel due to drastic curtailment in the steel and automobile trades. He said:

"Because of the uncertainty of industrial conditions, coupled with the current cash expenditures which will fully complete the construction program by the end of this year, the board of directors decided it to be in the best interest of stockholders to conserve the company's strong cash position."

Youngstown Steel Activity Drops 9%

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 4. Production of raw steel in the Youngstown district is now at a rate of 33 per cent of capacity, compared with 42 per cent at the beginning of the week. Republic Steel Corporation has suspended melting operations in its open hearth furnaces. Activity at some tin plate mills has improved, however.

OIL PRODUCTION UP FOR WEEK

TULSA, Aug. 4. Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended August 1 totaled 2,490,450 barrels, or an increase of 13,150 barrels, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 4. (AP) The Derrick, commenting on an increase of 15 cents per barrel in Pennsylvania crude as posted yesterday, says the price boost is a result of continued proration together with seasonal increase in consumption.

Runs to refineries, it continued, are now greater than runs from wells, with a result that storage is being drawn upon in some districts. Refined products also are showing a better tone with bright and cylinder stocks in active demand at higher prices.

Oil associations, the newspaper says, are warning against modification of curtailment agreements and asking producers to continue to "sit tight."

The increase of 15 cents closely followed one of 20 cents made last week.

Little Change in New England Business

BOSTON, Aug. 4. Monthly review by Chairman Curtis of Federal Reserve Bank of Boston says there was little change during the second quarter in business activity. Although the first and second quarters compared somewhat unfavorably with a year ago, there was a noticeable recovery in the early months of 1931 from the low points at the end of 1930. Ten industries, boot and shoe and wool consumption showed fairly consistent gains during each month in the first half of the year and more than offset recessions in other lines.

SHARE PRICES MOVE DOWN SLOWLY

Further Liquidation of Railroad Issues Imposes Weight on General List

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Share prices dragged slowly downward in today's market, but trading was around the smallest volume in recent years.

Further liquidation of the railroad issues imposed a weight upon the general market and declines of a point or two were numerous with some of the carrier issues registering more substantial losses. With wheat prices again breaking to new lows and the recent upturn in Youngstown raw steel output proving short lived the day's rather meager grist of business news had a bearish tinge.

Pere Marquette prior preferred tumbled 9 points in a thin market and issues off 2 to 5 appeared in Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, New Haven and Missouri Pacific preferred. Among industrials, loss of 2 points or so appeared in United States Steel, American Can, Eastman, Johns-Manville and Allied Chemical. American Telephone lost as much.

There were no specific developments in the railroad situation to account for the further heaviness in that group but the feeling in Wall street that there will be several more reductions in railroad dividends before the year is out remains a heavy weight upon these issues as well as the feeling in some quarters that the railroad wage situation may come to the fore before the carriers' earning power is restored.

News of banking difficulties in Mexico added to the somewhat bearish atmosphere but Wall street discounted that situation when the country returned to a silver monetary basis several days ago.

The new lows in wheat were connected with more rigid restrictions against German imports of wheat which dashed hopes of any important disposal of the American surplus through any special arrangement with that country. There is still said to be a good prospect that Germany will take a substantial amount of American cotton and copper on special terms.

Raw steel production in the Youngstown area which recently pushed up to 42 per cent of capacity is now said to be back to 33 per cent or only slightly better than the latest estimates for the industry at large, 32 per cent.

Wall Street Expects Regular Dividend on General Motors

Standard Brands Inc. has been slightly more active in recent sessions at higher levels based on the financial improvement which the company has been making from the standard point of operations. It is one of the few companies whose net income this year is running ahead of 1930. In the first half it netted ... charges, equal ... share on the common stock against ... share in the corresponding period of last year. The company is benefiting from its aggressive sales campaign through national magazines and its sales continue to reflect gains as compared with last year. Its subsidiary, Royal Baking Powder Company, is also doing better in the first six months this year than in the similar 1930 period.

Significance continues to be attached to the rail averages. The carrier group has been leading the way in the market on numerous occasions. At times when industrial and utility averages have shown small gains and rails have declined traders have sold the market on the theory that the action of the rails indicated a downward trend. They were right in most instances.

It is held ... August much the same as ... June that it is traditionally a month of rising prices in the share market. Some of Wall Street's pet beliefs have been found wanting in the last year or more as for example that which cautions "never sell a dull market short." The fact remains, however, that the market turned from lows of the bear movement ... June 2 last to work persistently and then spectacularly higher in the final week of the month. Thumbing back the records one observer finds that in August of 1921 the market had an average rise of some 10 points, paving the way for the bull market which culminated in 1929. Last year the market rose some ... average points from the middle of August through the early part of September and then went into the fall slump. Just now even those who look for the market to follow precedent this month are inclined to hedge considerably because of the lack of evident basis for any sustained rise at the moment.

Viola Rebukes Kitty for Going to See Forrest

CHAPTER XXXIV

"You are going to find a verse in the Bible!" I repeated somewhat awed by the mysterious change that had come over her.

I am sure Miss Hawes did not hear me. She picked up the worn little Bible on which she had just made me swear that I had spoken the truth about her daughter Dolly and Forrest Malvern.

She had [illegible] was sure that [illegible] sort of [illegible] heard of [illegible] walked [illegible] though [illegible] have [illegible] my way [illegible]

I found [illegible] stairs to the [illegible] hall and [illegible]

Forrest Malvern [illegible] roof [illegible] only three [illegible]

I shuddered [illegible] it—of [illegible] now I believe [illegible] old scrub [illegible] I could [illegible] hideous [illegible] have happened [illegible] there. [illegible]

In a few [illegible] cruising [illegible] my home [illegible] past the building where Forrest lives and I rather [illegible] look curiously [illegible] The little cottage was not visible from the street. I frowned and shuddered.

It was 2 o'clock when I [illegible] our room.

Forrest would [illegible] me some time during the day.

DECIDES AGAINST HIM

I decided that I would tell him frankly enough that I could see him any more and if he insisted for reasons I would tell him that I wouldn't take him away from Katie Dunton. I would even advise him to marry her. I might drop a few subtle hints, such as somewhat above Dolly, letting him know that the poor girl drowned herself in his account.

One thing was sure. I would not go out with Forrest Malvern again.

There was Thad Parsons. He still wanted to marry me. He would be mighty good to me.

A fleeting thought of Chubb Osmund brought a rush to my face.

As I was pondering these things and trying to quiet my nerves I heard the key.

I jumped in alarm. I should have been in bed. What would Viola think to see me dressed. I had left two hours before on a plea of a terrible headache.

I kicked off my pumps and ran to the bathroom slipping off my dress as I ran.

"Well, for cat's sake what's the big idea?" Viola asked.

"What idea?" I asked crossly from the bathroom.

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, who believes in playing around and having a good time, jilts Peter Thompson because he is poor. She expects to marry rich Thad Parsons, but Thad marries Arline Sargent instead. Katherine becomes fond of Forrest Malvern, an old friend of Dolly Hawkins, who has disappeared. Thad wants to divorce Arline. Arline offers Kitty a huge sum of money to testify falsely against Thad. At the trial, however, Kitty tells the truth and Thad is granted the divorce. He wants to marry Kitty, but she rejects him. Kitty has good times with Forrest. He has a gift for her and she promises to leave a party and go to his apartment at midnight to see it. In the building, on her way to see Forrest, an old scrub woman warns Kitty to stay away from him. Kitty goes to the woman's poor quarters to hear her story and is amazed when she proves to be Dolly's mother. The woman says that Dolly ended her life in the river.

Now Go On

The idea of being up and dressed when you had to shake [illegible] early because of a [illegible] headache.

Viola stumbled [illegible] bumped and came to the bathroom. I was wetting a cloth to put on my head for a blind.

"I [illegible] pass. I'll be [illegible] back.

"You don't look like that. Wash in [illegible] will get you [illegible] you're a head-[illegible]-pounder."

CHUBB DRUNK AGAIN

[illegible] when they are most [illegible] Where have you been, child?"

"Home, since midnight," and not [illegible] she asked.

"I got [illegible] Viola.

"But you've been home all [illegible]

"Oh, but of course. Where do you think I've been, up to the North Pole to see Santa Claus?"

"Oh, all right, Katie, only I can't see why you say that."

"Say what?"

"Why do you say you've been home since midnight when Luke just told me that you hadn't been in more than 10 minutes?"

"Luke was the night elevator [illegible]

"All right, I've been out then for [illegible] constitutional, some air. Isn't it all right, old dear?"

"Sure, it's all right with me. Katie, you don't have to tell me your business. Luke has been up since seven, and he said you just got in."

"Luke's asleep half the time. Did you have a good party?"

"I'll say we did. Poor Chubb went to sleep again." Viola paused to giggle. "I'll bet you turned him down again and he's going to poison himself to death with prohibition booch, just as he threatened to do."

"I should worry. Did Susie Lawton's artor sweetie show up?"

REBUKED BY VIOLA

"Right after you left. He's an old peach. I don't blame Susie for being wild about him. I would be, myself, up to the point of being foolish, not quite that."

Susie is 25, divorced, independently rich, it's nobody's business. I said, for I liked Susie, she had been mighty nice to me and I felt that I had to side with her.

"You haven't even been to bed and you think I'm dumb enough to let you fool me," Viola said reproachfully.

"It's all right. I was nervous," I insisted.

"You are wondering why I am butting into your affairs dear, and I don't usually," she said.

That made me stare at her and she laughed.

"By golly, I did read your thoughts," she cried and laughed but almost instantly she was grave again.

"You sneaked away to go and see Forrest, didn't you?" she said, eyeing me closely.

"What of it?" I said rather surlily.

"What of it! Everything! I detest him. I don't trust him. Whatever possessed you to go up to see him alone at midnight? You are no fool, ordinarily. You had both eyes open and you know your book. Now I ask you, why did you do it?"

"I didn't see him, Viola," I said weakly.

"You mean you wish you didn't. My God, you've gone and let Forrest make a fool of you, and worse!"

"I tell you I didn't see him tonight," I insisted.

"As if I would ever believe that, and are you sap enough to think he'll marry you now?"

My frayed nerves gave way at this. I couldn't answer her. I began to cry.

Does Viola know some secret about Forrest? Read tomorrow's thrilling installment.

DAILY SHORT STORY

'Arriett

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Drunk Mistakes Society Girl for Maid

Chet Dunston answered his apartment bell and found Kenneth Larson grinning at him.

"You old mossback," Chet said, "come in and shake the hayseed out of your hair, tell me how everything is in Podunk, how's crops and all that sort of bucolic rot?"

It was a standing joke between them ever since Larson had taken Dunston one college vacation out to his home in Larsonville, for Larsonville consisted of the mammoth Larson Brush Factory and sufficient shops and houses to care for such people as were supported by the factory. This meant about the entire population.

Dunston had laughed at the rural place and then he had been unable to hide his amazement when they drove out about half a mile and came upon an estate that was little short of a great castle.

"This is the Larson shack," Kenneth had said.

Moreover, Kenneth was as ritzified as cosmopolitan and as traveled as any man of twice his age.

Chet had, from that time on, called Kenneth his hick friend from the sticks.

So Kenneth entered Chet's modern bachelor apartment in the Tudor Arms, dropped his ritzy bag on a divan and looked for the disguised buffet.

He saw two traveling bags and one steamer trunk on the floor, open and in the process of being packed.

"What ho! Chet, are you going to journey into the great flat desert of Brooklyn or into foamiest Hoboken?" Kenneth asked.

"Company's sending me to Antwerp on a rush trip," Chet explained.

"When?"

ACCEPTS OFFER

"Sail at 1 a. m. in the morning."

"Which gives us plenty of time to have a natty and get purely tingled," Kenneth looked at his watch.

"I'll help you pack, and then we'll go places and art up a bit. A son of the soil from a hick town gets fed up on husking bees and hard cider. We'll drop my bag off at a hotel."

"You'll park your bag right here, Ken, and you'll take this key and you'll make this your hangout while in town. How long will it be this time?"

"A couple of weeks, but I don't want to impose."

"Stow that, Ken. You stay unless you can get away with me."

"No can do, Chet. I have to be on the job. Dad has some contracts in the offing, and I have to find out just what is back of them and what the credit is and such oddments of business."

With that they packed, and then Kenneth unpacked and got ready to make his headquarters in Chet's place after hot baths.

As Chet and Ken went out into the hall a trim little lass got off the elevator. Chet espied himself and went over to her, but before he could speak she asked, "Chet, where is the Adonis?" He looks like a collar boy ad that stepped out of an advertising page."

START FOR PARTY

"Chap named Larson and you can meet him tonight. Get Molly or Hattie and we'll make a foursome of it."

"A couple of dames for my bad luck but no can do. Hattie is going with me to the Ashtons' costume party. Make it tomorrow night."

He explained why this couldn't be done and asked Kenneth.

"Sue Blackman, swell little dame lives on this same floor," Chet said and explained what had happened.

"Oh, well a couple of Carroll or Ziggie's gals will do," Kenneth said.

And so they went out for their party. Kenneth vowing to get Chet aboard the steamer in time. His baggage had been started for the pier.

About the time they were fortifying themselves with a good dinner in the company of a couple of artists' models whom Cret knew, Harriett Farnsworth arrived at Sue Blackman's apartment. Beneath her long cloak she wore a perfect costume of a housemaid.

Sue raved over it and then began telling about the "Adonis" and what rotten luck it was that they had to go to this party and miss an evening with Chet and the handsome young man.

Chet and Ken attended assiduously to making a joyful evening of it and succeeded admirably.

Ken went down to the pier with Chet and aboard the liner, where quantities of champagne made its mysterious appearance.

They got Ken off the boat just as the gangway was being removed. Ken waved and hiccoughed enthusiastically until the tugs had nosed the big liner down the river.

He was very tired and found a taxi. He knew a quiet place and went there. It was 3 in the morning when he was taken to Chet's apartment.

Ten minutes before this Harriett Farnsworth had arrived at Sue Blackman's apartment, as she was to stay with Sue that night.

At 3 Harriett stepped out into the hall to mail a letter for Sue because Sue was very much in negligee.

A tall, handsome man was having difficulty in opening the door. Harriett hissed to Sue to come and take a peek. Sue informed her that this young man was the chap they had missed going out with. Harriett went down to the mail chute and dropped the letter. Sue was peering from her almost closed apartment door.

Ken straightened up for the tenth time and stared curiously at the key. He saw Harriett. He took a second look and then approached her with the laughable dignity of a well-jingled but gentlemanly chap.

"Miss," he said, "I'll make a guess."

Harriett merely stared at him, greatly amused and also greatly admiring.

"You are the night maid on this floor."

Harriett glanced down at her maid's uniform and then, without cracking the least hint of a smile, she bowed and said, "Yes, sir."

"Good! I'm occupying Mr. Dunston's apartment for a few days and I'm afraid he left me the wrong key. It won't fit the lock."

Harriett wanted to laugh, but that would spoil it, and Sue was watching from the slightly opened door of her apartment across the hall. So Harriett held out her hand for the key.

"Let me see, sir," she said.

OPENS DOOR

Ken handed her the key.

"It won't fit, but probably you have a master key, well, I'm a pop-eyed gargoyle, you opened it."

Harriett removed the key, pushed open the door and bowed. "Yes, sir," she said.

Ken stood in the doorway and eyed her.

"I suppose I can get you if I ring, but how many maids are on night duty?"

"Er, three, sir." Harriett answered, because this would help to cover up her prank if, later, he went searching for this particular "night maid."

"Three, eh?" Well, I certainly don't believe any of the other night maids on this floor would interest me. How can I be sure of getting you? I mean, what is your name?"

Harriett hesitated and then smiled up at him innocently enough.

"My name is 'Arriett, sir."

"Harriett. Pretty name, pretty girl, well, many thanks, Harriett, many thanks."

Before Harriett realized what he was doing she found a dollar bill tucked into her hand.

"Good night, Harriett," Ken said. "I may be slightly foggy about some things from overwork tonight, but that cannot fool me. You're the prettiest little girl I've seen anywhere at any time—good night again."

He closed the door.

Harriett Farnsworth stood there holding the dollar bill in her hand, feeling rather foolish and still suppressing a desire to scream with laughter. A giggle from across the hall made her turn and go to Sue's door, where Sue stood laughing softly.

"What a lark," Sue hissed. "I thought I'd yell when you told him you were the night maid on this floor and, good heavens, did he give you that money?"

"A tip," Harriett whispered, starting to push the door open wider and enter.

"Of all things."

"I say, maid, er, is that you, Harriett?"

It was Ken standing in the doorway across the hall. Sue tried to close the door and Harriett shoved back, trying to get inside.

"Can't find the towels, maid. Will you bring me some?" Ken asked again.

There was nothing for Harriett to do except say, "Yes, sir, in a moment, sir." With this she desperately shoved her way past Sue into the room.

"I've got to go through with it. If I don't bring him some towels he'll be pestering for me at this door," she gasped, so Sue gave her some of her own monogrammed towels and peeped out as Harriett took them over.

"Nice maid," Ken said, "and a mighty pretty maid at that."

"Thank you, sir," said Harriett, backing away.

Ken was closing the door when he heard the laughter and peered out again in time to see Harriett in Sue's doorway, both of the girls having a great laugh.

It was high noon next day when Ken came out, ready to go downtown to his father's branch office. Just as he was going out into the hall Sue and Harriett were emerging from Sue's apartment. With them was a dignified elderly man who eyed Ken sharply and advanced with extended hand.

"Well, well, it's young Mr. Larson," he greeted.

"Hello there, Mr. Blackman."

MEETS EXPLORER

Ken was surprised. Mr. Blackman, an explorer, had been out to Larsonville many times. He was a steady customer of the Larson plant.

He introduced Ken to his daughter and to Miss Farnsworth.

Harriett Farnsworth's face turned very red as Ken bowed politely enough, but seemed to be very much puzzled. Sue began to howl with laughter. Harriett tried to hush her. Mr. Blackman demanded an explanation. Then everyone laughed except Harriett.

They all went out to luncheon together although for the girls it was a breakfast, as it was for Ken.

"I suggest 'am and heggs for 'Arriett," Ken said.

To this day Ken often playfully calls her 'Arriett and they are very good friends, amazingly good friends for a couple married nearly five years.

Use the Knife, Sam, and Cut the Rope!

American labor does not want doles from the government or from the Red Cross. It wants JOBS.

Real Relief for Jobless Must Deal With Causes

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S conference at the White House with John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, indicates some official anxiety over the threat of a third winter of widespread unemployment.

But in thus placing emphasis on relief, the Chief Executive appears to be dealing with the effects of depression, rather than the causes.

The attempt to succor the casualties of an uncontrolled further deflationary period is like seeking TO BALE OUT THE ATLANTIC OCEAN WITH A QUART CONTAINER.

The modern, scientific, economic approach to the problem would be in seeking to understand and to deal with the underlying factors making for continued hard times.

THE lack of economic balance is aggravated by relative inactivity in the construction industry, which has been lagging far behind trades making goods intended for immediate consumption.

The inevitable result of the deficiency in construction activity is a curtailment of opportunities for human employment.

This in turn means a vast reduction in purchasing power, and thus a chain of depressing factors, which react everywhere, is set in motion.

To break the deadlock, it has been proposed that the federal government, with its unmatched financial credit, float a huge prosperity loan of $5,000,000,000 for social reconstruction and the return of normal business conditions.

THE proceeds of the loan should be spent on ESSENTIAL PUBLIC WORKS, such as Mr. Hoover himself outlined in his speech of acceptance at Palo Alto.

The idea of using permanent improvements as a balance wheel of prosperity and depression has long been advocated by outstanding economists.

The progressive policy not only entails speeding up public works in time of acute depression, but also retarding them in periods of industrial boom.

SUCH A PROGRAM, IF INTELLIGENTLY LAUNCHED, WILL GO FAR TOWARD REDEEMING THE VAST ARMIES OF UNEMPLOYED FROM UNPRODUCTIVE IDLENESS.

Federal buying will stimulate a variety of industries supplying the necessary materials, and the effect of calling back the jobless into regiments of gainfully employed working men will be to release new purchasing power that will permeate the entire economic fabric.

SUCH a plan would be timely and safe now after the event of deflation, whereas President Hoover's conferences at the White House in November, 1929, before the inevitable economic correction took place, were perhaps premature.

Any disappointment with the results in November, 1929, should not deter President Hoover from acting now, under radically different economic conditions.

American business has stood at the dead center for many months, and at length seems ready to respond to any genuinely sound stimulant, such as public construction and a sustained policy of monetary easement by the central banking system.

Any further deflation spells additional human impoverishment and widespread distress.

REAL LEADERSHIP SHOULD NOT BE CONTENT WITH HANDING OUT BREAD TO VAST LINES OF UNEMPLOYED.

It should aspire to exert a positive influence in the direction of economic stability.

THE able and willing unemployed heads of American families do not want doles from the government or from the Red Cross.

THEY EAGERLY CLAMOR FOR A NEW OPPORTUNITY TO WORK.

They seek alert leadership which will enable them to convert their work power into currency, which will again be redeemed at face value at the market place.

With a third winter of unemployment threatening, the opportunity is large for the Chief Executive to contribute to recovery by urging Congress, which should be called in SPECIAL SESSION, TO AUTHORIZE A PROSPERITY LOAN.

Mellon's Civic Pride

The Beauty and Setting of Most Pittsburgh Homes Are Attributed to a Wealth of Appreciation

Pittsburgh owes R. B. Mellon a vote of thanks for his unceasing [illegible] more beautiful city.

It [illegible] suggestion and at his expense [illegible] by the bureau of Highways [illegible] Kirkpatrick street [illegible] attractive cottage, around which [illegible] grew.

Legislative Bungling

Extravagant Expenditures at Harrisburg Is Shown in Study of the Committee System

The committee system of the Pennsylvania Legislature was [illegible] at the recent session. Committees [illegible] the will of the people by refusing to act on important [illegible] That was one reason why the Legislature accomplished so little that was worth while.

The committee system is presented unfavorably from another aspect in the report of a study made of the Pennsylvania Legislature by Prof. C. E. Winslow of Goucher College. The report has [illegible] published by the Johns Hopkins University Press.

Prof. Winslow states that more than half of the acts passed in Pennsylvania during the five regular sessions of 1921 to 1929 inclusive were either amended or repealed within six years. Many of the changes, Prof. Winslow holds, were due to defects in the first act which should have been caught if the committee system had been functioning properly.

He further asserts that of the bills killed by the Governor 40 per cent were vetoed because of defects which might have been caught and remedied if the legislative committees had done their work well.

Prof. Winslow's report indicates extreme carelessness on the part of the legislators.

It also indicates extreme wastefulness of time and energy—wastefulness for which the people have to pay.

Freight by Air

New Service Announced for Pittsburgh Is Another Milestone in the Progress of Aviation

[illegible] the Lindberghs and other pathfinders of the air [illegible] their sensational exploits we have a reminder in the announcement of a new airplane freight service for Pittsburgh that the strictly utilitarian side of aviation is also developing.

For most of us the charting of a new airway from Canada to Japan can be only of academic interest, but the possibility of getting parcels from Kansas City or New York in considerably less time than would be required by the fastest train may on some occasion be of practical importance.

The way to encourage aviation is to utilize the various services that are now supplied Pittsburgh.

Awards to the Blind

Pennsylvania's Sightless Persons Make a Creditable Showing in the Harmon Competition

We take pride in a winning baseball team and in the prowess shown by fellow-townsmen in many other forms of activity. There is cause for considerable pride, therefore, in the very creditable showing that blind persons of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania have shown in the Harmon Foundation competition.

The Foundation offered 100 rewards for the most noteworthy achievements by people in the United States without eyesight.

Nineteen of the awards have come to Pennsylvania, four to students in the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind.

The achievements for which the awards are given bear witness to the fact that, serious as the handicap of blindness is, it is not an insuperable obstacle to good work.

The local awards are a testimonial to the high quality of the instruction given in the school for the blind.

More Bass and Trout

The Allegheny National Forest Would Be a Good Place for the Proposed New Federal Hatchery.

Congress appropriated $100,000 for the establishment of a federal hatchery in Pennsylvania for the propagation of bass and trout. Sportsmen's organizations, civic bodies and American Legion posts in the northwestern part of the state have found a desirable site for the hatchery in the Allegheny National Forest and are urging the Bureau of Fisheries to put it there.

This is a movement in which similar organizations in Allegheny County might well join, and which Allegheny County Congressmen might well support.

The United States hatchery could be used for the stocking of streams in the Allegheny Forest, which could thus be made doubly attractive as a recreation center.

The plan, too, would fit in admirably with the announced intention of Maj. Robert Y. Stuart, United States Chief Forester, formerly Commissioner of Forestry in Pennsylvania, of increasing the fish and game resources of the national forests.

Lukewarm Love

Funny, isn't it, that the more efficient, intelligent and brilliant women become, the less scrupulous men seem to take them.

* * *

Women may be the weaker sex, filled with curiosity. But a woman is curious only about the things that concern her heart, her happiness and her friends, while a man is curious about EVERYTHING, from what makes the wheels go 'round to why God made him so wonderful.

Once love was either the essence of romance and purity of the triple extract of sin—but now it is just a plain drink of lukewarm water.

The super-amorist who can leave three or four sophisticated modern damsels each feeling, at the end of the summer, that she was positively the only woman he ever really loved may be a gay deceiver, but he certainly has his mission in life.

* * *

For some dark and inexplicable reason, NO man ever throws away a key. If he could have them all buried with him, doubtless it would make him happy. Which is why nothing intrigues a woman's imagination quite so much as a man's keyring—that magic sesame to all his present secrets and dead dreams.

A man's idea of packing a trunk is, first, filling it like a sardine can and then wrapping the shoe-cleaner in a nice white blouse and tucking it in the hat-tray.

Many a young husband is penny-wise and love-foolish. Saving a quarter on the electric meter and throwing away a woman's illusions is not good business.

* * *

Laugh it off, if you can, but the engine at the heart of the world is LOVE. Two and two may make four . . . but one and one can make a heaven or hell of life, for themselves.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Garden Song

Oh, I would have a garden
Of loveliness so rare
That all who came within its bounds
Would find enchantment there!

Each budding rose would whisper
Of seeing Beauty pass
And in its blushes mirror her
As in a glowing glass.

My garden would cry: "Welcome!"
All through the changing year,
With wistful charm of falling leaf
No less than April's tear.

But when I sought perfection
And nothing else would do
Then I would tread in garden ways
Moon-drenched and damp with dew.

The silver-shippered moonlight
The mocking-bird's refrain
Within a laughing garden
Bring Eden back again!

FRANCE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

MONTE CARLO, Aug. 4.—This miniature paradise continues a cesspool of European morals. Even the pungent perfume of its flowers is tainted with the cloying scent of blood, gold and diabolical deceit. The glow is the putrid phosphorescence of humanity's dregs.

It is ever amazing that perhaps the fairest spot in all Europe—for to the eye Monte Carlo is enticingly lovely—should cradle the worst thieves, panderers, harlots, rogues and money lenders to be found on the face of the globe. I am always sorry I came an hour after arriving.

The entire principality, the prince, the bishop, the canons, the soldiery, the police, hotel keepers, cab drivers, waiters and boatmen are banded together in a colossal brigandage to plunder the innocent visitor. And a dozen trains roar in daily to pour out the victims.

It is not decorative fiction that suicides are frequent. During the season there are several weekly but such messy scandal never reaches the outside world. Monte Carlo sees to that. After a heavy loser has shot, poisoned or hung himself his body is whisked away until interest dies down.

At the end of the season—this is official record—suicide victims are packed in cases, weighted and sunk far out at sea between Monte and Corsica. In 1898, 69 bodies were removed at night from secret crevices, towed out and dumped into deep waters.

Monte Carlo's biggest lure is the fable its bank was once broken. This fancy was cabled to all the world and is still believed. Yet it was a press agent trick. The bank has never been broken or can it ever be broken. Mathematically that would be impossible.

This is of course the off season and things are not at the usual pitch. The Casino is open but mostly for low stakes. Today, for instance, the crowds were chiefly men in flannels and the ladies in costumes pour le sport. I noticed two croupiers yawning.

Despite the off-season, the Casino is not shorn of its witch-like old ladies—the faded "Miss Harriets"—who seem to keep alive solely through the excitement of gambling. Most of them are past 70—one is reputed in her 92nd year—and every day they are on the fringe of the tables, like vultures coldly eyeing carrion. They are the inveterate students of the "system" and each believes some day she will make a grand killing. Not one ever has. In the end they are shipped to some far-away alms house.

* * *

Monte Carlo fears—and I wanted to ring the welkin with a cliff echoing "goody, goody"—the coming season. The men and women who frequent its green tables begin to make their reservations at the Hotel de Paris in July. So far reservations at all inns are off 80 per cent, which will bring its tourists down to the lowest number in history. The biggest year it ever had was the boom season of 1929.

* * *

I have seen the wicked Prince of Monaco's oceanic exhaust. Fish are his diversion—tuna especially, which is a cipher in feeble wheezes. I have also watched them shoot clay pigeons and sail along the promenade des Anglais at the 11 o'clock parade. So this afternoon I lolled on the green of a Mediterranean hill and watched sail boats skimming to white Bills was all jittery over the swooping and spiraling gulls chasing them like a canine clown.

* * *

Such fortnight novelists as E. Phillips Oppenheim and the late Arnold Bennett glorify Monte Carlo as the gayest playground in the world. Yet so far it has been my dullest day in Europe and for no reason at all I am strangely depressed but I am looking forward to dinner al fresco and a night view of the Corniche road.

* * *

The Grande Corniche—literally the cornice above the Riviera—is a highway of short turns bird-like swoops and fascinatingly dizzy loops. Seen from the calm water side below the dark glaring motor headlights like fire-flies trace in a miracle of brightness its irregular course. To me there is something impish about it all, romance flying through the night on wings. And glamorous twaddle like that.

* * *

O, yes, another thing: this morning I lost 275 francs or $11 in five minutes trying to beat one of their absolutely absurd games. They should put a stop to such carryings on.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"Service" . . . our most popular Twentieth Century slogan.

What lovely things we say about it . . . and how mad we get when the lovely things don't come true.

"Look at all we did for those bums," we rave, "and what good did it do? They're right back where they were before."

But were we really doing things for "those bums" . . . or were we doing them for ourselves, to gratify our own ego and our will-to-power?

Sometimes, of course, service is really disinterested. Sometimes we do things from sheer love of decency and pity for our unfortunate fellow man. And when such motives lie behind our service, "virtue is its own reward." Regardless of what the other fellow may do—and he usually does plenty!—we have the warming assurance that we have acted as Regular Eggs. We expect no gratitude. We are not insulted if our good gifts are wasted and our excellent advice slighted. Such are the perils of philanthrophy, but the game is worth the price.

Yes, sometimes Service is as fine as that. But many a time it isn't!

It's so easy to kid ourselves into thinking we are Being Big-hearted . . . that we are doing it all for the other fellow's sake . . . that we don't want any praise or publicity. And all the time we're getting a big bang out of BATTING FOR GOD and helping Him put His earth in order.

Of course, we're sorry for the unfortunates we help. Stupid shiftless things—what a mess they've made of their lives! But, on the other hand, how comforting it is to think of our own superior wisdom and strength. And what a nice, exciting, bossy time we're going to have, fixing them over to suit our notion.

For a while all goes well. Then presently something happens. Maybe we get fed up with the other fellow. Maybe he gets fed up with us. In either case the big act flops. And forthwith we blow up. Rave about man's ingratitude. If he only had done as we said —. That's all the thanks you get for trying to help anyone—.

But the plain truth is that we weren't half as much interested in helping him as we were in handing ourselves a thrill. And now we're mad because we couldn't have our own way and run his life for him.

But we have no right to run the other fellow's life for him, even though we may be infinitely wiser and more capable than he. Each man must grow according to his own nature. Each man must learn through his own experience. And often our mistakes are as necessary for our growth as our successes. We can and we should offer help when help is needed. But we have no right to demand a mortgage on the other fellow's soul in return for that help.

If you can't undertake service with that understanding, don't try to serve. Take up tap dancing instead.

Text for Today

For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also the Greek.—Romans 1:16.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. A. H. Tibbs, pastor, Willow Way Baptist Church, Braddock.)

FIRST ASTRONOMERS

By Archibald Henderson

Among the early Greek philosophers, theories of the cosmos were largely in the nature of speculation. This idea and that notion were played with, but there was little in the way of concrete knowledge on which to base these different theories. Both Plato and Aristotle took over from the Pythagoreans the belief in a spherical immovable Earth which was situated at the center of the universe.

A real beginning at scientific investigation, as pointed out by Hector Macpherson in Modern Cosmologies, was made by Eudoxus of Cnidus. He introduced the inductive method of studying the cosmos, and thus laid the foundation of scientific procedure. He believed that the way to arrive at the truth was not to theorize aimlessly, but to base theories upon actual observation of the heavens. He put forward a theory of concentric spheres; but it is not certain whether he believed that this was an actual mechanism or only a convenient working hypothesis. It is possible that Eudoxus merely regarded his spheres as geometrical constructions suitable for computing the apparent paths of the planets.

It is very difficult to convey an adequate notion of this highly complicated system of Eudoxus. But he did believe that each celestial body was situated in the equator of a sphere revolving with uniform velocity around its poles. But in order to provide for other irregularities and complications, he assumed the existence of other spheres, rotating around their own poles, and also that these poles were rotating around other and still larger spheres. One sphere was sufficient to take care of the fixed stars. Three spheres provided for the motion of sun and moon. But it required four spheres for each of the planets. In all, Eudoxus used 17 spheres.

Complicated indeed the system was. And yet it is remarkable how well, all things considered, it accounted for the observed celestial motions. Of course Eudoxus had very imperfect observational data to rely upon. And yet his system roughly filled the bill, save in the case of Venus and Mars. Some 30 years later another scientific observer, Calippus, one of the pupils of Eudoxus, proceeded to make a scientific generalization, adding more spheres to the system of Eudoxus, in order to take care of irregularities formerly unexplained.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you selfish in your sports?

Do you avoid the player not as proficient as yourself?

If compelled to pair off with such a one, do you appear quite disinterested in your game and thus show your displeasure?

Do you constantly comment on the manner of play of this person?

Do you indicate that his method is all wrong and make unsolicited suggestions as to how he might improve his game?

Instead of playing your own game as you should, do you experiment in a way that proves you have little interest in the outcome of the contest?

In your own crowd of equals in skill you are a companionable sort.

You probably consider yourself such at any rate.

But you are a real sport only when conditions around you please you.

You might be of great assistance to a struggling player in your club if you would assume the right spirit toward him.

He thinks that by watching you in your best play he may be able to learn something and you should give him an opportunity to see you at your best.

Get rid of your swelled head, there are many who can beat your game.

In a contest against them you would be only a dub.
